Health Bill Is Introduced; Asks Tax on Pay Rolls

Medical, Hospital Dental Care Are Included in Measure

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, April 25 (AP) — Legislation to carry out President Truman's far-reaching health program was introduced in Congress today.

The bill calls for pay roll-tax insurance to provide medical, hospital and dental care for about 120,000,000 Americans at a sponsor-estimated cost of around $6,000,000,000 a year.

The administration measure also would put into effect all the other phases of Mr. Truman's program.

Those include federal grants for medical education, hospital construction, public health services and research. The bill also authorizes an experimental program of federal aid to farmers' health cooperatives.

A sponsors' statement accompanying the bill was signed by Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D.-Utah), chairman of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee; by Senators Murray (D.-Mont.), Wagner (D.-N. Y.), Pepper (D.-Fla.), Chavez (D.-N. M.), Taylor (D.-Idaho), McGrath (D.-R. I.), Humphrey (D.-Minn.), and by Representatives Dingell (D.-Mich.) and Biemiller (D.-Wis.).

Not a single Republican's name was on the list of sponsors. Some Republicans—as well as some Democrats — have branded the President's national health insurance program "socialized medicine."

But the sponsors, in their joint statement, retorted that substitute "voluntary" plans backed by Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) and others travel "the sure road to socialized medicine."

The backers of the President's program called their pay roll-tax plan "the tried and tested democratic way." They added:

"In fact, it is the only way we know of to avoid socialized medicine. . . ."

No Estimate

The sponsors of the administration bill made no estimate of the overall cost of the Truman program, nor can one be made on the basis of the bill itself.

In some cases specific appropriations are called for, but in many other cases the bill simply says that whatever sum Congress finds is necessary to carry our particular plans is "hereby authorized."

The sponsors did estimate the annual cost of the health insurance plan at about $6,000,000,000 a year, most of which would come from a three per cent tax on pay-rolls, split between workers and employers.

Federal aid for construction of hospitals would be doubled under the bill, going from the present $75,000,000 a year to $150,000,000.

A program for training practical nurses would cost $5,000,000 annually, while $10,000,000 the first year and $15,000,000 each of the next four would be available to farmers' health cooperatives.

A new child research program would get $10,000,000 the first year and "the sums necessary thereafter to carry out the program." Grants and loans totalling $35,000,000 the first year would be authorized to encourage doctors and nurses to settle in rural and other shortage areas.

Medical Education

To push medical education, existing medical schools would get $300 for each student enrolled on the basis of average past enrollment, plus $1,700 for each student above that average.

Dental schools would get $250 and $1,300 on that same basis, while nursing, public health and sanitary engineering schools

Apple Blossoms Expected to Be in Full Display Soon

Scenic Rides Are Available Throughout County; Growers Warned on Sprays

Ulster county's apple orchards are expected to be in full bloom in time for the Sunday motorist by the week-end.

At the present time the buds appear to be ready to burst into bloom at any moment. William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, has predicted the blossoms will begin to come out during the week and, if weather is favorable, the orchards will be in "full dress" during the week-end.

One of the nicest drives for apple blossom enthusiasts is along the road which leads from Marlborough through Lattintown and connects with Route 44 near Modena, Palmer said. Other back roads in that general area will present panoramas of orchards in bloom. Route 32 from New Paltz south and Route 9W are also good blossom routes.

Peaches and sweet cherries have been in full bloom during the past week.

County Agent Palmer reported the blossom season about 10 days ahead of last year. At the present time buds are good, giving indication of a heavier crop than last year, although of course so much depends upon the weather between now and harvest time that an accurate prediction of the harvest is impossible, he said.

While blossom time is a beautiful season in the country, it is also a busy season for fruit growers.

Correct use of sprays at this time becomes extremely important if the blossoms are to be properly pollinated. The farm bureau has been holding twilight meetings of horticulturalists and distributing information as to placement of beehives and precautions to be observed.

Can Harm Bees

Poison sprays, such as arsenate, can cause great losses to honeybees if used just before blossom season, the farm bureau points out.

Honeybees often gather water in the early spring to dilute the concentrated reserve supply of honey which they carry over winter in their hives. They normally obtain the water from the source closest at hand and unfortunately they are not able to distinguish between poisoned water and pure water. When the bees are in the orchards they often gather water underneath or near fruit trees.

Even one application of arsenate of lead before the blossoms open will contaminate most of the water which the bees are likely to pick up in the orchard. This is one of the reasons why fruit growers are urged to avoid the use of arsenate until after the bees are removed from the orchards.

Boessneck Buys Sutliff Property

Pontiac Garage Proprietor Acquires Parcel on O'Neil Street

Emil G. Boessneck, local Pontiac dealer and proprietor of the Pontiac Broadway Garage, Inc., at 708 Broadway, has purchased from Mrs. Frances E. Sutliff a parcel of land on O'Neil street adjoining the Hummer feed store. He plans to erect a modern showroom, garage and service station on the premises.

On the property, approximately 132 by 130 feet in size, is a concrete block building which has been used for storage purposes. Boessneck plans to replace this with a modern structure. His present place of business on Broadway, which Mr. Boessneck owns, has become too small and in order to secure more room the new location has been purchased.

Boessneck indicated that on completion of a new building on the O'Neil street property, the present Broadway property probably would be offered for sale.

Police Are Baffled

Atlanta, April 25 (AP)—Atlanta police, investigating the slaying of Metropolitan Opera tenor John Garris, reported they are just as baffled today as they were Thursday when his body was found. Two men have been arrested in the case. Neither, however, has been connected definitely with the slaying. Both arrests resulted from an investigation centering around a .38-caliber Belgian-made automatic pistol—the same caliber which fired the death bullet.

Dether Promises Tale About Mrs. Brennan

Dover, Del., April 25 (AP) — George A. Dether, 74-year-old former husband of Mrs. Inez Brennan, the plump brunette jailed on a murder charge in Delaware's lonely hearts killings, is coming here tomorrow to tell state police "some very important things."

Police Col. Herbert E. Barnes said Dether told him he "doesn't want to blame the kids."

Dether is an instructor in tool and dye making in a Damascus, Va., furniture factory. Mrs. Brennan was his eighth wife. He is the father of George Brennan, 17, and Robert Brennan, 15.

10 Persons Die When Fast Train Demolishes Truck

Nine in One Family Die; Were Returning From Church Services to Homes

Carthage, Tenn., April 25 (AP)—A fast freight train rammed a truck crowded with Sunday worshipers at a crossing near here last night, killing 10 persons—nine in the one family—and seriously injuring another.

The truck burst into flames and was dragged some 100 yards down the track before the speeding Tennessee Central diesel could come to a halt.

Some of the dead were scattered along the tracks, while the rest were pinned in the cab of the truck. All eleven were returning from church services to their homes at Hogan's Creek when the accident occurred at the Gordonsville-Lancaster road crossing about eight miles south of here.

Instantly killed were:

Jess Bennett, 50, driver; his wife, Mattie Bell Bennett, 45, and their sons, Douglas, 12, U. L. 10, and Melvin Earl, eight.

Mrs. Paulie Bennett Dickens, 24, daughter of the Bennett's; her husband, Paulie Dickens, 27, and their one-year-old daughter, Catherine.

W. E. (Coonie) Bennett, 49, Jess Bennett's brother.

Miss Linnie Gibbs, 17, died shortly after arriving at a hospital at nearby Lebanon.

Ruth Robertson, 18, the sole survivor, was hospitalized at Lebanon. Doctors said she suffered a broken pelvic bone.

A son-in-law of the Bennett's, John Overstreet, told Commissioner Neal he had stopped his car at the crossing to let some passengers out when the truck came up behind him.

"I knew the train was coming," he told Neal. "I tried to wave the truck down, but my father-in-law pulled around me and went on in front of the train.

A conductor on the train said none of the crew saw the truck until it loomed up before the lights of the engine.

400 Protest Plan To Abandon O.&W.

Walton, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—About 400 shippers, merchants, farmers and mayors from 10 southeastern New York counties protested yesterday proposed abandonment of the strike-bound New York, Ontario and Western Railway.

At a meeting, the group voted to send a 10-member delegation to New York city to support their stand in Federal court Wednesday.

Trustees of the railroad have made application to the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize abandonment of the line. The case will be heard before a Federal judge Wednesday.

A strike of 400 operating employes, which began seven days ago, has resulted in 1,400 non-operating workers being laid off. Four brotherhoods are involved in the strike. The operating em-

Pravda Says Britons Are Yank Slaves

Russian Paper Declares A. R. Johnston Says Reds Leading Force for Peace

Pact Is Assailed

Atlantic Treaty Is Called 'War Bloc of Imperial States'

Moscow, April 24 (AP)—A British embassy official is quoted in the Communist Party newspaper here as charging the British government with preparing the British people "to be slaves of American masters."

He was further quoted as saying the Atlantic Pact is "a war bloc of imperialist states" and that "the Soviet Union is the leading force in the struggle for peace."

The official was identified by Pravda, the Communist newspaper, as Archibald K. Johnston, editor-in-chief of the Russian language newspaper Britanski Soyuznik (British Ally), published by the British foreign office for distribution in Russia.

Pravda yesterday printed a lengthy letter over Johnston's signature. The letter declared the British embassy was not interested in improving British-Soviet relations "but in fact does everything to worsen these relations."

Johnston was quoted as saying he had decided to remain in Russia to devote all of his "energy and talents to the question of peace."

The British embassy began an investigation of the case but did not issue any statement.

(In London, the foreign office said it had received no report. A spokesman said informally, however, that "apparently there is nothing to be done about it and no comment seems necessary. Johnston is, of course, free to give up his job if he doesn't like it for any reason.")

The letter in Pravda said:

"For the English people which avoided at the price of sacrifices the fate of slaves of Hitler's hordes there now is being prepared no less horrible fate—to be slaves of American masters.

"Now on the streets of London there are American soldiers and officers. In the restaurants are American businessmen, traders, traveling salesmen and agents."

Must Begin Campaign

Johnston was quoted as saying that the press attache of the British embassy informed him about two weeks ago that a campaign of "power projection" must be begun in Britansky Soyuznik. The letter added:

"I must explain this in an English term. It means that Britanski Soyuznik must print articles and photographs demonstrating the military and economic power of America and England in order to frighten the Soviet people and to prove to them the western 'Democracies' possess invincible arms."

"The workers in the British embassy in Moscow met this proposal without enthusiasm, but it would be naive to suppose their opposition was founded on a peace-loving basis. Notwithstanding their convictions, they recognize with regrets that the Soviet people cannot be terrorized."

Johnston, who has been in Russia since February, 1947, formerly worked for the London News Chronicle.

Britanski Soyuznik comes out in Moscow once a week in an edition of 40,000 to 50,000 copies. It was started during the war. It carries articles on Britain, British-Russian relations and official speeches of British leaders. The material is prepared in London and sent to Moscow for editing and publication.

The case of Johnston bears points of similarity to those of two Americans. In April 1947, Armond D. Willis said he quit as U. S. information officer in Russia partly because of what he described as the anti-Russian attitude of American embassy officials.

In February, 1948, Miss Annabelle Bucar, a native of Pittsburgh, resigned as foreign service staff officer and administrative assistant to the chief of the Moscow office of the U. S. information service. She said in her letter of resignation that the policy of the U. S. embassy was "directed against" the Russian people.

She revealed at that time she had been married for 13 months to Konstantin Lapshin, a Russian operatic baritone.

Sino Reds Plan Trap For 300,000 Soldiers

Other Units Awaited at Shanghai

Swift Blow Is Aimed Toward Hangchow; Commercial Center Is Bypassed

Refugees Are Many

Situation Grows Serious in Shanghai; Trains Arrive

Shanghai, April 25 (AP)—Red armies aimed a lightning blow toward the sea at Hangchow today hoping to trap 300,000 Nationalist troops below Shanghai.

Other Communist forces, which took Nanking yesterday without effort, were reported just 19 miles from Shanghai. Residents of this, the world's fourth largest city, waited in a steady rain for the Reds. But none were sighted up to dusk.

Shanghai seemingly was being bypassed. But none could say for sure. Even military spokesmen admitted they did not know just where the Red armies were.

The feeling grew among Shanghai's 5,000,000 inhabitants that the great Asiatic commercial center would go over to the Communists without a fight, just as Nanking did Sunday morning.

Seymour Topping, Associated Press correspondent in Nanking, reported the former Nationalist capital received the Communists quietly at 3:20 a. m. Sunday, Nanking time. One of the Communist soldiers' first tasks was to put out a fire that vandals had started in the judicial Quan building. The building was a total loss.

The Communists took their stations before some foreign embassies and all government buildings and utilities in Nanking. No guards were placed before the American embassy, however.

During the afternoon three government planes tried to destroy gasoline and ammunition dumps at the Nanking airport. Communist spokesmen said they overshot their mark and their machinegun bullets injured some Nanking children at play.

A welcome to the Communists by Nanking residents was planned for later.

At the time Nanking fell, the Communist radio at Peiping announced the capture of Taiyuan, Shansi province capital and industrial center 600 miles northwest of Nanking. Taiyuan had been under siege for months. The radio said all of the city's 150,000 defenders were wiped out. Pilots who flew over Taiyuan later reported it in flaming ruins.

The speed of the Red drive southward from the Yangtze apparently had thrown a noose around the government defenders. How close the Communists were to Hangchow, big port 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, was obscured by conflicting reports and lack of accurate military information.

Junction Not Touched

Kashing, the vital rail junction 53 miles southwest of Shanghai, apparently had not been touched by the Reds. Trains from Hangchow through there arrived this morning and tonight. Passengers said Kashing was quiet and there was no indication the Reds were near the city, which controls the Shanghai-Hangchow railway.

The refugee situation in Shanghai is growing serious. Late today roads leading into the city from the west contained lines of rain sodden peasants. Most of them had only enough food for a few meals. The refugees said they were coming to the city because the soldiers always fought in the country but never in the cities.

No one knows what to expect in Shanghai.

There was no indication of where Gen. Tang En-po had his 300,000 government troops—or if he still had them under his control.

Shanghai garrison headquarters kept parroting that this city would be defended to the last man. How, when and with what was not apparent.

Tang, Nationalist defense commander of the gigantic Shanghai-Nanking-Hangchow triangle, reportedly had fled Shanghai for the south. So had Premier Ho Ying-chin and other top government officials.

Acting President Li Tsung-jen reportedly had gone to Kweilin

School Meeting Is Adjourned a Week Due to Law Change

Consolidation Is Sought for Four Districts May Meet April 30, Roosa Announces

A meeting on consolidation of school districts of Stone Ridge, Oak Grove, The Peak and Atwood which was called for Saturday evening, April 23, at the Stone Ridge Grange hall between the hours of 7:30 and 8:30 p. m. was adjourned a week when it was found a change in the law had made approval by the Commissioner of Education necessary for such action. The new provision of the law was enacted during the 1949 session of the legislature and became effective last month.

District Superintendent of Schools Lester J. Roosa, stated today that the meeting had been adjourned for a week and in the meantime approval of the commissioner would be sought. If such approval is secured by Saturday announcement will be made by radio Saturday morning if consent is granted late, and

Thief Gets $50 At Brass Rail; Coats Taken

Woodstock, April 25—Burglars broke into the Brass Rail tavern in this village early Sunday morning and made away with $50 in cash from the cash register.

The theft was discovered between 9 and 10 o'clock Sunday morning when the porter arrived to clean the place. The proprietor, Frank Farrell, notified state police, who are conducting an investigation.

Trooper Ray Dunn said entry was made by breaking a pane of glass in a window on the north side of the building. The thief apparently reached down through the broken pane and unlocked the window.

The time of the theft was placed at about 4 a. m. Sunday, at which time neighbors reported hearing a noise, Trooper Dunn said.

In addition to removing the cash from the register, the thief or thieves dragged the juke box into the back room and smashed it with a bar stool but failed to reach the cash box, according to Trooper Dunn.

Several suspects were questioned but no definite leads had been uncovered up to the present time, Trooper Dunn said.

About one hour before the Brass Rail was entered someone stole two coats from an automobile parked at the Sea Horse, several hundred feet from the Brass Rail on the Rock City road and another automobile was maliciously damaged, Dunn said. The damaged automobile belonged to Robert Ahlheim of Woodstock, who reported the wiring ripped loose from under the hood.

It has not been established whether there is any connection between the burglary and the molesting of the automobiles, Trooper Dunn said.

Brannan Tells Congress Farm Cost Total Unknown

Clay Would Have Germans in Setup

Sends Message to Members of Associated Press at Luncheon

New York, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor in Germany, said today "the only sure way to peace" is in the formation of an association of the free nations of western Europe, including Germany.

"The forming of an association of the free nations of western Europe with Germany integrated therin will create lasting stability in Europe and will not only end the threat of Communist expansion but will make it difficult for the Communist front to keep intact," Clay said. "It is the only sure way to peace."

Clay made the statement in a message to members of the Associated Press, worldwide news gathering cooperative, at their annual luncheon in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The message was read by J. Wes. Gallagher, AP chief of bureau in Germany.

Gallagher and Harold K. Milks, AP correspondent at Nanking, another luncheon speaker, gave on-the-spot reports of conditions in Germany and China.

At a business meeting earlier, the members voted for six directors and acted on the applications of 17 associate members for regular membership.

AP President Robert Mc Lean presided. Mc Lean is president also of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The board of directors, in its annual report, said there was a continuation of a trend by governments abroad to control the news. But, it added, AP representatives and AP newspapers "in all accessible parts of the globe" are contributing to independent world news coverage.

Clay's message reviewed the four years of military government in Germany. He said that "by late 1947 it was certain that agree-

Some Figures Worked on Assumption Big Depression Is Underway

Washington, April 25 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Brannan again told Congress today that it is not possible to forecast the cost of the administration's proposed new farm program.

He said the difficulty about making estimates is that the cost question is tied so tightly to general business conditions.

Brannan was testifying before the House Agriculture Committee. He outlined the administration's new plan to the committee before the House took its 10-day Easter vacation. The members asked him then to come back after the holiday with figures on the probable cost.

Although he had no cost estimate of his own, Brannan described as "reckless" estimates —some made by Congress members—that the cost might run $3,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 a year.

"If I understand the estimates correctly, all of them assume a severe depression and low farm income," he said. "I confess that I do not assume a depression. On the contrary, the whole proposal is designed to help avoid a depression by maintaining reasonable farm income."

The administration plan would halt the present practice of government buying of surplus perishable products—such as meats, dairy products, fruits and vegetables—for the purpose of keeping up prices to guaranteed levels.

Instead, it would allow prices of these products to drop to levels determined by supply and demand. If the price did not bring the farmer a predetermined return, the government would make up the difference in a payment.

The administration plan would keep the present method of supporting prices of crops that can be stored such as grains, cotton, tobacco and oil seeds.

One of the arguments made for the new plan is that it would

New York Begins Program To Reduce Mental Illnesses

Albany, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—New York embarked today on the first phase of Governor Dewey's long-range program to reduce mental illnesses. It will cost unestimated millions.

Dewey signed a bill creating a five-member commission to formulate a master plan by which the state can undertake a comprehensive campaign to combat mental sickness.

The governor also, over the week-end, signed the controversial statewide building code bill.

He hailed it as a "notbale step on the road to good homes at lower prices for all the people."

The administration bill, which barely squeezed through the Legislature, was opposed by the Democratic minority and the State Conference of Mayors. Democratic Mayors William O'Dwyer of New York and Erastus Corning of Albany led the opposition.

It sets up a five-man commission to formulate uniform statewide building regulations for municipalities having local building codes.

As watered down by amendment, however, the bill provides that the regulations may be rejected by any municipality. Dewey had urged enactment of legislation which would have given the commission authority to establish a code carrying the force of law.

The new law, carrying a $300,000 appropriation, was introduced by Senator Paul A. Fino, Bronx Republican.

Both the mental health and the building code measures were major proposals in Dewey's 1949 legislative program.

The mental health bill, effective

Tensions, Violence Mark Philippines Central Region

By SPENCER DAVIS

Cabanatuan, Philippines, April 25 (AP)—All is far from peaceful in this central rice bowl of the Philippines.

Readiness for trouble is evident on all sides and already violence flares sporadically.

Recent incidents include the ambush murder of a police chief, wounding of four civilians by a grenade thrown by a drunken soldier, death of a Philippine scout of the U. S. Army in a mass holdup, and alerting of this provincial capital of 55,000 against possible attack by marauders.

Driving over the countryside less than 100 miles north of Manila, one finds villagers thronging the roads by day. At sundown all roads are clear. The few travelers drive at high speed.

Philippines constabulary and temporary police, all heavily armed, stand guard in even the smallest villages.

Families keep close to their homes. Many have dug foxholes beneath their stilt-legged nipapalm huts.

What is the reason for all this? Why, this is "Huklandia," the stamping ground of the outlawed, Communist-led peasants called "Bukbalanops." The name is tagalog for "people's anti-Japanese army." It was organized during the war to oppose the Japanese, and kept going afterward in opposition to the Philippines government.

The people fear the Huks, the civilian guards and the soldiers, and the bloody clashes that come when one group meets the other.

Last fall and winter the constabulary mounted a stiff campaign against the Huks. The government had attempted previously to make a deal, offering amnesty

MY BED

When all the joy of day is spent
And twilight brings a calm content
I like the hours that lie ahead
Before I seek my humble bed.

Fatigue is such a pleasant thing
When slumbertime becomes a king
And then my bed looks mighty fine
Until the sun begins to shine.

A touch of 'flu or any ill
Can change my routine, quite at will.
The bed I like so well at night
Has little charm when hours are bright.

I like the day to dash around
Where busy folks are always found
But when misfortune visits me
The minutes drag until I'm free.

The bed is fine for solid rest
And I can sleep with childish zest
But when the coffee starts to perk
I much prefer to rise...and work..

Coplon Asks One Indictment Against Her Be Dropped

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Judith Coplon asked the U. S. district court today to throw out one of the two indictments against her which grew out of an alleged rendevouz with a Russian agent.

Her attorney, Archibald Palmer of New York, argued that an indictment voted by a Washington grand jury against the 27-year-old former Justice Department employe, should be dismissed because nine of the 17 grand jurors present were government employes.

Government attorneys replied that the question of eligibility of government employes to serve on juries here has been settled by a long-line of court decisions.

The motion and argument came when Miss Coplon was called to trial.

The indictment here charges her with copying and removing secret documents from Justice Department files "with intent and reason to believe the information was to be used to the injury of the United States and to the advantage of a foreign nation."

In addition to the indictment here, Miss Coplon is under indictment in New York along with Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, a Russion and former United Nations employe, on espionage conspiracy charges.

Miss Coplon, a tiny brunette, listened attentively during the arguments before Judge Albert L. Reeves, a visiting judge from the western district of Missouri. She was wearing a black faille suit and a white blouse. Frequently, she took notes and held whispered conversations with her attorney.

Palmer told Judge Reeves that the indictment here contains virtually the same language as the one in New York, except that the New York indictment alleges she and Gubitchev conspired to violate the espionage laws. Palmer said the indictment here was voted after she had entered a plea of innocent to the New York indictment "in an effort to break her down so she would tell them what they thought she knew."

"There was no necessity outside of terrorism to indict her all over again," Palmer said.

He called the two indictments "double jeopardy," and "a mockery of justice."

As part of the alleged spying conspiracy, the New York indictment charges Miss Coplon with attempting to deliver government secrets to Gubitchev. The two of them were arrested together in New York last winter.

Minor Accidents Are Reported to Police

Three slight auto mishaps involving only property damage were reported to the police over the week-end.

Elias O. Nickerson, 88 Moore street, reported at 7:45 p. m. Sunday that his auto, headed west on Broadway was struck by a car in front of the city hall. The driver failed to stop, he said, but a license number was obtained for a later investigation.

Abraham Smith, 231 Albany avenue extension, reported at 1:34 a. m. Sunday that his car had been damaged at Wurts and McEntee by another auto, the driver of which failed to stop.

A lawn and shrubbery were reported damaged Saturday afternoon when a car operated by A. Goldfarb of Lounsbery Place and one driven by George W. Sherry, 62 VanDeusen street, were in collision at Washington avenue and Pearl street. The Goldfarb car went up on the lawn at 219 Washington avenue and Pearl street. The Goldfarb car went up on the lawn at 219 Washington avenue, the police said.

Former Officer Killed in Crash Near Vail's Gate

Middletown, April 25—Darwin E. Christiansen, 26, of Hayward, Calif., former special service officer at Stewart Field, was killed early Saturday morning when his car crashed into a milk truck on the Temple Hill road, two miles north of Vail's Gate.

Christiansen, who was only discharged from the air force on Friday, died instantly when his car was virtually destroyed in the collision.

Frank F. Chapman, R.D. 2, Montgomery, driver of the truck escaped uninjured although his van was overturned by the impact of the early morning crash.

Troopers are still investigating the crash.

The veteran's death was the second in Orange county during a period of less than 12 hours.

Boy Dies of Injuries

Dwayne Lovelace, 5, died Friday night at St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis as a result of injuries received when he ran into the side of a car operated by Harry Gass, 29, of Middletown. The boy died as a result of a fracture of the skull.

22 in New Jersey

Newark, N. J., April 25 (AP)—The temperature dropped to a frosty 22 degrees in Stokes Forest in northern Sussex county at 7:15 a. m. today. The Newark Airport weather station blamed it on a cold front from Canada.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 25 (AP)—Slight early gains in the stock market today faded away into small losses.

The movement of the market was highly restricted with a few exceptions. A considerable number of leaders remained unchanged for long periods.

Richfield Oil, which made strong gains last week, fell more than a point at one time. Other oils were mostly lower, although Richfield was alone as an active issue.

Vandium Corp. was up around a point among the steels before falling back a shade. Other steels were unchanged to lower.

Rails turned in a mixed performance while motors were small fractions lower. Metals and chemicals were irregular.

Market action on the whole was regarded as inconclusive in the light of last week's fall which was halted Saturday with a rally. Buying did not carry through the week-end.

Quart of Milk Douses Truck Fire

Those scribes who record the milkman's versatility, now have one for the books from Kingston.

It happened shortly before 8 a. m. Sunday when Robert Eck, of Charlotte Place, driver for Carnright's Dairy, saw a fire in the truck of Aaron Adin, 150 Fair street.

The vehicle was parked near the Adin home, when Eck, who was in the neighborhood with the Carnright truck, saw the fire. He uncapped a quart of milk and quenched the blaze before firemen arrived.

The fire was caused by a short circuit firemen said.

Other slight fires over the week-end included one at 135 Green street at 6:23 p. m. Saturday, caused by a short circuit in an electric fixture, another due to a short circuit in an auto owned by Junior Harris, 43 Gage street, near his home at 2:28 p. m. Sunday, and a brush fire near the quarry off Wilbur avenue at 4:36 p. m. Sunday.

Brannan Tells...

mean lower prices for consumers when there were surpluses of farm products.

Brannan took the case of hogs as an example of how it would work.

Assumes Year's Output

He assumes a year's production goal of 20,000,000,000 pounds of hogs and a price support level of $16.50 for 100 pounds. He assumed that farmers actually produced 21,000,000,000 pounds—or 1,000,000,000 more than the market would buy at the support price.

Under the present program the government would have to buy the extra hogs, in the form of pork, and remove it from the market supply. The cost, he said, would be about $230,000,000.

Using the same amount of money under his plan, the government could make production payments to farmers equal to $1.10 for 100 pounds on the 1,000,000,000 pounds of surplus hogs.

Such a payment would be about seven per cent of the support price. If this seven per cent reduction could be carried all the way to the retail level, Brannan said, it would be posible to reduce the consumer's price of pork by the same percentage.

Similarly, Brannan said, the consumers might save four cents a dozen of eggs, one cent a quart on milk and $1 a bushel on potatoes from government payments of $172,000,000 on eggs, $150,000,-000 on milk and $225,000,000 on potatoes.

These payments and savings were all theoretical but based on experience under the present price support program.

Brannan emphasized:

"If national income stays high and reasonably well distributed, farm prices will not rest on the supports and therefore supports will not be costly.

"If, however, you assume a depression then you must be aware that farm surpluses and city employment will almost certainly force into existence programs of straight relief and very likely some form of a food stamp plan which could be very costly".

Clay Would Have

ment with the Soviet government for a unified Germany could come about only under conditions which would be favorable to Communist-domination of its political life and economic resources."

Establishment of a west German government under a more liberal occupation statute was proposed to the German Parliamentary Council by the United States, Britain and France, Clay said, in the hope of a "better understanding necessary to draw west Germany into close association with the nations of western Europe."

Military government will cease with establishment of a west German government, Clay said.

"A west German government," he said, "can develop in the democratic tradition only as it is given the right to associate with nations which have long traditions of democratic government and it can form such association more readily under the guiding hands of a civilian high commission.

"The time for punitive measures has ended. Goodwill and a helping hand are needed, not only to create the new government but to make it feel that it is wanted back in the comity of free nations as quickly as it has demonstrated its own will to be free."

Rome Gets Rain

Rome, April 25 (AP)—Prayers were said in Rome's more than 400 churches today for rain—and rain came. It broke the greatest Italian drought in 30 years. Because of it, electricity has been rationed throughout Italy. Rome's meteorological office reported rain was falling in Rome, Seina, Florence and many other parts of Italy. Over Sardinia there were promising clouds.

Visits U.N. Assembly

New York, April 25 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) came back to the United Nations Assembly today on the fifth anniversary of the San Francisco charter conference. Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt of Australia hailed him in a brief speech as "a distinguished founder of this organization." Vandenberg, a former delegate to the Assembly, sat with the U. S. delegation.

Sino Reds Plan...

and retired President Chiang Kai-shek to Amoy.

Obviously the time was getting short for an evacuation by sea from Shanghai.

But as yet there was no large movement of government forces falling back on Shanghai. Neither was there any evidence of troop evacuation at the city's port. Nor could Nationalist defenders be seen manning defenses around Shanghai.

U. S. Consul General John Cabot warned Americans in Shanghai that any wishing haven aboard U. S. naval ships here should report to the consulate immediately.

Although his announcement did not say so, it was construed as the first step in emergency evacuation. Because of the Communist shelling of British ships on the Yangtze last week, U. S. naval authorities said their ships would be pulled out of Shanghai and anchored in the lower Yangtze. This would put them out of Red gun fire.

At the same time, British Consul General R. W. Urquhart said evacuation of Britons was not justified by present developments. Officials in London announced that arrangements had been made to take 4,000 British subjects from Shanghai whenever it was deemed advisable by authorities "on the spot."

would get grants in varying amounts.

The bill has no overall appropriation figure, however, for that aid-to-education program.

Congressional hearings on the bill are expected to start soon and will last several weeks. There probably will be no final action on the legislation until next year.

Under the bill, the National Health Insurance program would not go into effect until July 1, 1951.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—At 16, Hildegarde Loretta Sell played the piano in a silent movie house in Milwaukee.

She was a plump, earnest, religious German girl, who hoped for something better.

Today, 27 years later, Hildegarde is a svelte internationally known supper club entertainer who has perhaps kissed more bald pates in public than any lady in history.

She has dropped the Loretta Sell from her name. But success hasn't made her lose the best qualities of Loretta Sell. She is still earnest, religious—and hoping for something better.

She retains a girlhood characteristic that most artists have who stay at the top in their field, an inexorable desire for self-progress.

"I still take piano lessons, because the piano is my life," she said.

"I have always wanted to play wonderfully well. Right now I'm doing the classics. I'm learning a concerto. I hope to be able to do it by 1951 with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. They've invited me."

Devoting her spare time for two and a half years to learn a 42-page concerto perfectly doesn't seem like too much struggle to her. Struggle has made her a perfectionist.

Dreary Beginning

She told me something of her life and hard times as we sat in the living room of her luxurious seven-room suite at the Plaza Hotel. It is the kind of suite she used to see flash on the movie screen in the days when she thumped out background music.

Hildegarde became one of the highest-priced supper club and radio entertainers after a dreary and low-paid apprenticeship. She worked in vaudeville, song-plugging, and a girl band. She trouped in London and Paris night spots.

The woman who helped work out her successful formula of wit, glamor, sentimentality — and special lighting effects—is Anna Sosenko, one of the shrewdest managers in show business.

"There was a time in Paris when I was broke," said Hildegarde, "and I would have given anything for $99 to pay my passage home. Half of me said give up, but half of me said stay. And I guess the half that wanted me to stay and keep on trying was really three quarters."

Twice a night now she descends to the Plaza Persian room, where she has been starred for 11 years.

Quick Prayer Helps

"I still get terribly filled up with butterflies just before I go out on the floor," she said. "But I say a quick prayer."

For an hour she whisks about, running a comb through her blonde topknot, fluttering a lacy handkerchief, playing the piano with her gloves on, trading sophisticated repartee with patrons, and singing sentimental love ballads.

Hildy has a mind well-stocked with pleasant squelches to silence sideliners who want to stay in the spotlight too long.

"An entertainer has to have authority over the audience," she smiled. "You can't afford to lose control."

One reason for Hildy's popularity is her ability to kiss a middle-aged man on his bald pate and send him back to his table feeling like a colt. Or to give a teenage youngster a motherly peck on the cheek and make him feel years older.

Someone once said the secret of Hildy's success was the fact she made "sex look funny."

"How else can sex look in a public place?" she asked.

The only unfulfilled ambition Hildegarde has is to be a painter, "and I would be one if there were ten more hours in the day."

Hildy is a bachelor girl. I asked her who was the most interesting man she had ever met. She ducked this but did say whom she would most like to be cast up on a desert isle with.

"A doctor," she smiled. "Doctors know so many things besides medicine."

Camp Tri-Mount Waterfront Leader

THOMAS W. JONES

Walter T. Tremper, chairman of the camping and activities committee of Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scouts, announced today that Thomas W. Jones of West Orange, N. J., will be the waterfront director at Camp Tri-Mount, the council's summer camp at East Jewett this summer. Jones is finishing his sophomore year at Cornell in the school of engineering and has been on the camp staff of his home council's camp for three years.

Jones is an Eagle Scout with more than eight years service in scouting. He has also attained the high rank in the explorer phase of senior scouting of ranger. He is a brother honor member of the National Camper Honor Society, the Order of the Arrow. Last summer he led several parties in canoe trips on the Delaware River and will be in charge of such a party this summer for the Cornell Outing Club before he comes to Camp Tri-Mount.

Having done considerable work in aquatics, Jones holds a senior life saving certificate from the American Red Cross and will attend the national aquatic school of the Boy Scouts of America this spring. From this school he will get all the latest in aquatic teaching techniques and program ideas to insure a fine program on the Tri-Mount waterfront this summer. One of Jones' particular successes has been in teaching non-swimmers how to care for themselves in the water. With his assistants at Tri-Mount, non-swimmers this year will be given an opportunity to learn to swim unequalled in any other camp in this area.

Mr. Tremper added that his committee is working on the problem of the camp staff and other personnel will be announced in the very near future. The 1949 season at Tri-Mount opens on July 10 and will run for five full weeks. More than one-half of the capacity of the camp has been reserved already by Scouts from the Kingston and southern districts. With a normal capacity of 75 Scouts per week, Tri-Mount will have about 375 boys in attendance this year. Troop 76 of Wallkill has already reserved Campsite No. 3 for the final two weeks of the season; 30 Scouts and their scoutmaster, Edward Niddrie, will climax their year's work by this fine outdoor experience.

DEMAND A. B. C. ENFORCEMENT

Enforcement of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law was, by legislative design, placed directly in the hands of local police agencies and if Rotarians would demand adequate enforcement in their own communities it is doubtful if the moral force of your demands can long be resisted. This statement was made Thursday last by Deputy Commissioner George P. Butterly of the State Liquor Authority at a dinner meeting of the Rotary Club at Waterville, New York.

Describing enforcement as a misunderstood phase of philosophy of alcoholic beverage control, Mr. Butterly said it is up to the "cop on the beat" to find out what is going on in places licensed to sell alcoholic beverages and "to perform his duty as the law demands."

The Authority, with an investigative staff of only about 70 men in its three zone offices, must necessarily depend upon the 30,000 police officers in the State not only to enforce the law but "to gather evidence of violation of the law which is needed by the Authority in order to bring disciplinary proceedings against licensees, Mr. Butterly asserted.

In a reference to the moot question of license limitation, the deputy commissioner said the Legislature did not write a limitation provision in to the law because the economic philosophy of the State supports the principle of free enterprise, the encouragement of private initiative and the multiplication of small businesses in the State.

But in the final analysis the people themselves, by their patronage, determine largely the number of outlets and their location, with limitation ultimately controlled by the element of economic competition.

Recently an English girl factory worker exchanged jobs for six weeks with an American factory girl. The two girls said they had a good time at it, but when the period was up both were glad to get back to their own homes and their own jobs. Both had critical observations to make about the lands they visited.

CURRENT CENSUS

The extent of the gains made in business in Kingston over the past 13 years and the city's current standing, in relation to other communities, will be determined by the new census of business begun by the Department of Congress.

The census, the first since the 1939 count, which represented conditions in 1935, is a nationwide undertaking. Enumerators, now in the field, will cover all retail, wholesale and other businesses, gathering figures on employment, payrolls, receipts and the like.

The last census showed Kingston to have 566 retail stores in operation. They grossed $12,540,000 for the year. The 66 wholesale establishments in the city did a sales volume of $12,710,000 and the 66 manufacturing plants produced goods valued at $6,920,000. These activities and others gave gainful occupation to 12,200 people out of the 28,100 then residing in Kingston.

Since that time the national income has risen from $56.4 billions a year to $224.5 billions, or four times as much. One of the many questions the survey will answer is whether or not Kingston's gains were in proportion.

Emphasis also will be laid in the census on the development of statistical information designed to furnish management with data to be used in the appraisal and development of business operations.

Moscow says that a proposed three-country expedition to seek the ruins of Noah's Ark on Mt. Ararat, near the Soviet border, is simply another excuse for spying on Russian territory. Could be the expedition is looking for that dove of hope which came around to inform Noah that the storm was over.

It is always interesting to see the way city people brag about the country, and vice versa.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

I have received from Alfred Kohlberg, an outstanding authority on China, a photostat of the "program for action on China policy" of the American Communist Party, dated March 1, 1949. It is signed, "May Miller, Asst. Org. Secretary."

These are their objectives:

"1. Demand a congressianal investigation

A. Of the Chinese lobby in Washington. One of the largest spending foreign influences in our capital; not registered as foreign agents.

B. Of the billions of dollars of private accumulation deposited in American banks and investments by Chinese officials and individuals.

2. Demand a new China policy

A. An end to all forms of American intervention in China and of plans to aid any elements and remnants of the Kuomintang.

B. Preparation by our government to recognize the government which the people of China are now establishing.

C. Planning now by our authorities for genuine and self-respecting co-operation with the people's government in China, including normal and friendly trade relations free of any political conditions.

3. Get the facts and implications of the government's China policy to the American people."

Two of the means of carrying out the program are:

"2. Make use ofthe 'political ammunition' of facts; the American people, if they know, will act.

A. Make a drive to get readers and subscribers to 'Far East Spotlight,' the Committee's monthly magazine. This is the indispensable tool for every fighter for a new and friendly policy toward China. Previous sources of reliable information about China and the Far East now have an NAM slant; only 'Far East Spotlight' gives you the positive and encouraging facts about the Chinese people's great and successful fight against American reaction, and keeps you up-to-date about Washington's evil plans to go on backing reaction in China and the Far East. Subscription: $2.00 a year. Introductory offer: $1.00 for eight months. Members of the C.D.F.E.P. get this free.

B. Push the sale and reading of Anna Louise Strong's 'Tomorrow China' paper bound 65c; cloth bound $2. Organizational orders for 5 or more: 25 per cent discount."

Of course, they have dropped Anna Louise Strong since she has been expelled from Soviet Russia.

This is one of the most interesting instructions:

"3. See to it that the President and the members of Congress hear from hundreds of individuals on China policy right now. Order prepared postcards from the committee—1c each. Write your own messages. Make calls—in person and by telephone—on your senators and congressmen."

And here are the inevitable and invariable slogans:

"The Chinese people are defeating the American reactionaries: So can we!

"China policy reveals the over-all character of Washington's foreign policy—it harms the American people.

"China policy is directly related to our domestic struggle for homes, for more consumption goods, for lower prices and increased social security, healthy international trade, for freedom from depression and militarism.

"China shows up the weak spot in our reactionaries' program.

"Let's fight on China policy and take advantage of the blow the Chinese people have dealt the American reactionaries!"

The resolutions of January 29, 1949, start with the following paragraphs:

"1. That our government since V-J Day has violated both the Democratic objective of World War 2 and the charter of the United Nations in giving support to the anti-Democratic and dictatorial Kuomintang regime of Chiang Kai-shek.

2. That our government since V-J Day has made available to the Kuomintang regime of Chiang Kai-shek over six billion dollars. ($6,000,000,000) worth of the resources of the American people for use in civil war against the people of China who are our historic friends and allies in the task of building a peaceful, prosperous and democratic world.

3. That American guns, bullets, airplanes, bombs, poison gas, gasoline jelly, and flame throwers have brought suffering, death and destruction to millions of people in China, thus threatening the alienation of the billion and a half (1,500,000,000) people of Asia who are our natural allies in a democratic world."

This is all that I have room for, but it gives you the lead to the lies, so that you might recognize what the agents of Soviet Russia are up to.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

NECK, SHOULDER AND ARM PAIN

Shortly before and during World War I a number of cases of painful neck, shoulder and arm were found to be caused by what was called an extra cervical (neck) rib. This short piece of bone was found to be pressing on one of the nerves coming out from the spinal column in the neck region. By removing this short or cervical rib, and thus removing pressure, pain disappeared.

During the past few years conditions other than cervical rib have been found to be causing this neck shoulder and arm pain, such as abnormal insertion or attachment of a muscle, arthritis of joints of the spine and a crushed disk (cushion between bones of the spine). By correcting these conditions insofar as possible, excellent results have been obtained.

It is now known that another condition, simple tiredness, by causing the shoulders to droop, can cause pressure on the same nerves and cause the pain in the neck, shoulder and arm. In the "British Jounal of Physical Medicine" (using heat, baths, exercise, massage), Dr. K. N. Lloyd states that the sagging of the shoulder or shoulders puts pressure on the nerves and muscles of the neck. Shoulders droop when the muscles that hold the shoulder up in position lose tone because of overuse, strain or aging.

It can be seen that while rest might be necessary part of the time, the real treatment is to develop the muscles that lift and hold the shoulders erect. One exercise known to all physical directors, rolling the shoulders upward and backward (shrugging the shoulders), is an effective method of holding up the shoulders. All exercises done with the arms overhead or above the shoulders will strengthen the "elevator" muscles.

As mentioned once before in the treatment of this pain, the patient while lying down day or night should try to keep his arms in line with his shoulders, not let the shouders sag at any time.

The best exercise of all is to develop the abdominal muscles by bending exercises in which the knees are kept straight—bending and trying to touch the toes; lying on the back and raising the legs to a right angle—and, finally, always standing and sitting tall, which carries the shoulders well back from the chest.

The Deal's Off

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Keep your eyes on the stubby little man with the gavel in his hand at Lake Success. Herbert V. Evatt, Foreign Minister of Australia and President of the U. N. General Assembly, is the quiet center of the East-West cyclone. He is not afraid to make enemies for himself in his efforts to make peace.

Evatt used to be the triggerman in counter-attacking the Soviets. Now he is leaning over backward to be fair, and bangs his gavel to protect the Russians as well as the Anglo-Saxons.

One day last week Evatt refused to let U. S. Ambassador Austin come to the defense of the Atlantic Pact, after Soviet Gromyko had attacked it. Reason: Austin had just spoken on another subject, and Evatt made him wait his turn.

The Australian is a human dynamo, and sometimes a grouchy one. When he rides from the Drake Hotel in Manhattan to Lake Success in the Cadillac limousine assigned to him, he sits up front with the chauffeur, writhing with impatience when they get stuck in crosstown traffic.

But he is even more impatient to get the chariots of peace out of the traffic jam. He thinks the big powers have got themselves worked up to a psychopathic state, wants to knock their heads together.

"Doc" Evatt is one of the few persons who know how close the "neutrals" came to lifting the Berlin blockade during the U.N. session at Paris last fall. At that time he got himself called unprintable names for meddling in the cold war.

But if the cold war is hawed out this spring, it will be partly thanks to the efforts of "intruders" like "Doc" Evatt, who hates war more than he hates the Soviets.

The Diaper Lobby

You can now find registered lobbyists on Capitol Hill from the cradle to the grave.

Beginning at the cradle, the National Institute of Diaper Services of New York retains a lobbyist, Stanley Posner, at $5,000 a year. On the other end of life, William C. Henning of Columbus, Ohio, gets $6,000 for looking after the legislative interests of the American Cemetery Association.

Even the family wash gets into the lobbying act through Richard A. Tilden of Washington, D. C., who represents clothespin manufacturers for $100 a day—when he works.

Lobbyists' earnings also vary widely, some working for nothing, while others haul down elaborate sums running into five and six figures. Thomas E. McGrath, address "General Delivery," Washington, D. C., is the self-appointed non-paid agent for an outfit he calls, "Taxpayers, U. S. A."

This rugged individualist informs Congress in his registration form that he pays all his overhead out of his own pocket—including "thinking" expenses. Burton Clark of Washington, a "retired explorer and university professor," also is a nonpaid spokesman for interests ambiguously described as "strictly personal."

Big-Time Lobbyists

However, most of the boys who have registered since the 81st Congress convened last January get big folding money. The American Medical Association employs several lobbyists with five-digit incomes, including Frank E. Wilson ($12,000 a year, plus $2,400 expenses), and the husband-and-wife firm of Clem Whitaker, hot-shot west coast publicists. Together they are paid $100,000 a year to unsell Congress on national health insurance.

Gerard D. Reilly, ex-Labor Department solicitor and National Labor Relations Board member, makes over $50,000 a year lobbying against certain phases of labor legislation he used to champion. His clients include General Motors ($36,000), the Printing Industry of America ($4,800) and General Electric (salary to be revealed in a later report to Congress).

Other blue-chip lobbyists are Sherlock Davis, who gets $20,000 a year, plus a fancy expense account, from U. S.-Cuban sugar interests, and the New York public-relations firm of Bell, Jones and Taylor, which lobbies for a string of five-and-dime and variety stores.

Bell, Jones and Taylor is paid $10,000 a year by S. H. Kress and Co., $3,000 a year by McCrory stores, plus $100 a day by these and other clients, including the G. C. Murphy Co., for keeping tab on legislation affecting retail trade.

The Diplomatic Cables

Johnson's Action Is Viewed as Violation of Key West Agreement as Regards Armed Forces

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 25—Unification of the armed services—long sought by Congress and the American people as a desirable objective—has just been dealt a devastating blow.

In defiance of the express authority of Congress, the new secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, has permitted two of the armed services to pair off against the other.

Instead of confining the joint chiefs to the definition of functions and missions which they agreed upon in the famous Key West document on joint operations, the secretary last week asked the head of each service to sit in judgment on what tools the other services shall have to carry out their missions. It is a plain violation of the spirit of the Key West agreement.

This is what the decision to halt work on the super aircraft carrier really means. Twice Congress had the matter up and authorized the navy to allocate its tonnage according to its own best judgment. There is no power in any existing law which authorizes either the President or the secretary of defense to ignore the authorizations made by Congress for the armed services.

Yet last week, Secretary Johnson, in effect, put before the joint chiefs the question of whether the will of Congress should be superseded. The joint chiefs met and decided to put their views in writing. Three letters were delivered to Secretary Johnson on Saturday morning last and within half an hour the decision of the secretary was given to the press—even before the head of the navy, Admiral Denfield, knew about Mr. Johnson's decision.

Worse than this, at no time since Mr. Johnson became secretary of defense has he consulted the chief of naval operations about the matter nor has he given the secretary of the navy, John L. Sullivan, a chance to talk with him about it.

This merely confirms what has been suspected ever since Mr. John took office—namely, that he came with preconceived judgments and did not approach the problems with an open mind. No man now should be given the powers which have just been asked of Congress for the secretary of defense after such a flagrant example of arbitrariness has been revealed.

It is not the halting of work on the aircraft carrier which is so important. It is the basic principle which is at stake.

For if, by a stroke of the pen, the secretary of defense can ignore the statutes of Congress, he can overnight ask for a vote from the joint chiefs on whether the marine corps shall be absorbed in the army and whether the naval air arm should be absorbed in the land-based air forces and these steps really could mean the weakening of the defense of the United States.

This is not unification but disintegration. The blow that has been struck at the morale of the Navy will be felt throughout that service. All eyes had been fixed on the Secretary of Defense to see how he would handle the carrier issue. He was, however, not even graceful in his disposal of a difficult problem. He did not give either the Secretary of the Navy or the Chief of Naval Operations the courtesy of a personal conference.

It is difficult to see how Secretary Sullivan can continue in office or how any self-respecting man can accept office as his successor if he is to learn of important decisions affecting his department by reading about them in the press. It is difficult to see how the Joint Chiefs of Staff is to function effectively hereafter without a specific definition of its duties. For otherwise, the Navy head, for instance, will be called on to decide how many tanks the ground forces shall have and whether B-36's shall or shall not be built in quantity and other details of the weapons desired by other armed services with which the Navy is not familiar.

The vote by the Joint Chiefs was two to one—with the Army and Air Force chiefs voting against the Navy. Neither the Army chief nor Air Force chief had a top command in the Pacific or saw a large-scale naval war. The carrier problem is a technical matter in which the Navy is expert. It won the war against Japan largely by naval carrier action.

The only solution is to let each armed service specialize in its own way, each helping the other on joint missions as worked out already in the famous Key West agreement which was unanimous. This can be accomplished only if, after a lump sum is decided on as a total for all services, the right of each service to use to the best of its ability the money allotted to it will not be impaired. If the Navy's appropriation had been cut in half recently it still would have preferred to develop the new aircraft carrier because it believes that weapon is vital to naval operations and to anti-submarine warfare. It is a sad and tragic story which should be fully aired in Congress so that the American people will know the whole truth.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

With the street being torn up on lower Broadway, perhaps no one remembers when a stream of water was constantly pouring down Division street hill, now Broadway. Rondout streets were regulated and graded around 1859. Present junction of Spring street and Broadway used to bring heavy rain water and tons of sand down the steep hill to the creek, often leaving thick deposits on the store floors near Ferry street. Around that time, a new board of enthusiastic trustees (Before the Board of Public Works) deflected the water elsewhere, how or where, who remembers? They say, passengers alighting from the old trolley cars after a rain had to watch their step, or they would sink into deep mud holes. During hot summer days the beating of the horse's hoofs used to sent up thick dust.

On August 1906 the dust question was brought up before the Common Council and it was voted to try the use of oil to lay the dust down on Broadway and Delaware avenue. For a number of years the paving of Broadway was talked about seriously, and on April 2, 1909, the common Council finally adopted the majority report of the Committee on Streets, Sewers and Water Supply, and awarded the contract to Ring & Foley of Patterson, N. Y. They were specified to lay Catskill Brick. But that didn't end the matter. For a minority report signed by Alderman A. W. Van Gaasbeeck recommended that Beesmer Block Brick be used instead of Catskill Brick.

It is said, before the majority report was adopted there was considerable street agitation and also public oratory on the part of various aldermen, with a large attendance of interested spectators at the meeting. But one way or another brick was first placed on Broadway, the morning of July 21, 1909. Who remembers, Edward Foley, the expert brick layer, who required the services of 10 men to carry the bricks to him from the piles along the street. It is said, he laid brick at the rate of 600 yards a day. Is that still a record today? (An item on July 1907—in which during the administration of Mayor Walter P. Crane, it is said, the Common Council, favored the use of shale brick pavements on parts of Broadway, Fair and Main streets.)

In later years during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield, the brick began to wear out, and instead of relaying the street with brick a new pavement of Willite was laid on top of the brick. The Canfield administration laid many streets with Willite, a patented pavement surface. It was during Canfield's administration, that the Board of Public Works came into existence and given full charge of the streets and sewers.

It is said, Mayor Morris Block first used Kyrock. And Mayor Eugene B. Carey, favored use of the new patented road material Amesite.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

In a farewell column on December 31, I announced I was going to give my typewriter a four-month vacation while my missus and I took a trip around the world. As I put it at the time, I wanted to see something of the planet before some idiot blew it up.

Well, the other 7 a. m. Eleanor, eight battered suitcases and your Uncle William got out of an air buggy at LaGuardia Field after a sky-riding safari in which we covered 35,000 miles and more countries than Joe Stalin can make aces at. And, to give it to you fast, the world is all right for a visit, but I wouldn't live there if they gave me the place.

As many a connoisseur of the cliche has pointed out, to appreciate America you've got to leave it for a while. You've got to go up against the bathrooms of Shanghai and Calcutta to realize the importance of the unspectacular little blessings we take for granted around here. Hot water, clean beds, roofs that keep the outdoors from coming indoors—these are collectors' items in most of the far-flung and farfetched corners of this overgrown eight-ball. And unless you're a glutton for misery, you can't come back to the States without being a little sadder, wiser and appreciative as all jump-out.

But don't get me wrong—Eleanor and I wouldn't have missed seeing the world for the work. Almost every one of the 35,000 miles was jam-packed with the whacky and the wonderful and, if nothing else, we wound up on speaking terms with a wide assortment of civilizations, climates, fauna and flora. Some of the people we met reside on the front page; and some do their sleeping in back alleys, but they all contributed to the nutty wonder of the junket and, what's even more important, they all had stories to tell.

Thumbing through my shorthand notes on the menus, old envelopes and theatre programs I've been carting around, I realize it will take many a column and many a calloused quip to get these stories on paper, but here's a quick run-through of some of the yarns I'll be unwinding in this chatterbox for the next several weeks. Maybe it will give you some feel of the eye-bugging hoopla that confronted us every time we set foot on another fabled hunk of terra infirma, by courtesy of Pan American, Thomas Cook and Mrs. Shipley of the State Department:

RIO De JANERIO—The story of what happened when I met Brazil's atom bomb at Lily's Castle and the peculiar request she made.

BUENOS AIRES—My tete-a-tete with President Peron and his promise to exchange open letters openly with me . . . . What Eleanor thought of Senora Evita and the solid gold knick-knacks on her shoes.

MEXICO CITY—The goose-lumpy story of the lady who loved too well in a graveyard.

HOLLYWOOD—Why I think the movie boys ought to go to Washington and kiss the pavement in front of the Supreme Court Building.

HONOLULU—The incredible tale of voodoo and vengeance that's a cinch to make the anthologies—that is, if I can make the adjectives behave.

TOKYO—How I met up with an old chum of Eleanor's—name of General MacArthur—and his answer to the question, "How come you've never come back for the hero's welcome that has been waiting for you in the United States?".

SHANGHAI—The lowdown on the Al Capone of China and his monopoly of show business . . . . The village where you can buy a human being for ten dollars.

CALCUTTA—The two million people we saw sleeping on the sidewalks and the Commies' chances of pulling the iron windowshade down on India.

NEW DELHI—Our sidetrip to Agra and why Eleanor bawled me out when she saw the Taj Mahal.

ISTANBUL—An on-the-barrel report of the American-financed Turkish Army . . . . And the night I almost drowned in the Bosporus.

ATHENS—The bitter facts about the Near Eastern oil swindle and why Jim Forrestal isn't likely to invite me to tea after my piece appears.

ISRAEL—Why a Palestinian who doesn't believe in miracles isn't a realist . . . . The stop-watch war . . . . The battle that was won with sound effects . . . . The Arab sniper who made Eleanor take off her red scarf.

ROME—Our private audience with the Pope and the little joke that got a laugh from His Holiness . . . . The story of the grateful rabbi who turned Catholic . . . . A bare-knuckle appraisal of our ambassador to Italy, James Dunn . . . . The beautiful chanteuse with the pronounced talent and the unpronounceable name.

PARIS—A man's-eye view of the fashion shows of Christian Dior, Malyneaux, Jean Dessus, et al . . . . Is Garry Davis a crackpot or the sanest citizen in the world? . . . . Yvonne Menard—the most exciting hunk of girl in Europe.

LONDON—The amazing comeback of the town on the Thames . . . . The coming Festival of Britain in 1951 and the show I'd like to stage in Hyde Park . . . . The Marshall Plan and what our boisterous buck is doing for the pauperized and pulverized peoples of the earth.

And so fasten your safety belts, ladies and gentlemen. In the next column we take off from LaGuardia at 9 a. m. sharp. Destination—Rio!

Pine Knoll 'Y' Day Camp Opens Monday, June 27

The Pine Knoll Y.M.C.A. Day Camp, located at DeWitt Lake will opens its seventh season starting Monday, June 27, Lou Schafer, day camp director, has announced.

Every season at Pine Knoll it has been a better camp than the year preceding. This year's camp promises to be the best ever promoted by the Kingston Y.M.C.A.

The camp is divided into areas, the junior camp for the younger boys and girls six to nine years of age, and the senior division for campers 10 years and over. Having two camp areas gives the children in each particular age group a better opportunity to participate in all camp activities, giving them the opportunity for more experience in his or her outdoor life. The camp will look better than previous years, as all camp pavilions have been painted and new tents purchased, along with some added playground equipment.

The camp swimming areas will be better situated this year. W. L. Burnett, owner of DeWitt Lake, has made many improvements to the lake front, even to the enlarging of the pavilion on the water's edge. The teaching of swimming at camp is considered a major objective and Lou Schafer, as head swimming instructor, will see to it that practically every boy and girl learns to swim a required distance before they leave camp.

Campers have the privilege of earning camp emblems and ribbons for achievements. This year a special award will be given each camper that learns to swim and covers a distance of 50 yards in deep water. Once this distance is accomplished a camper will be considered safe in deep water, but within a limited distance from shore.

Mr. Schafer's two camp assistants will be Rheta Stout in the younger camp and John Vertetis in the older group. Miss Stout will be completing her seventh year at Pine Knoll, and she has just finished her second year at Cortland State Normal School where she is studying physical education. Mr. Vertetis will start his second year at the "Y" camp, and this coming June will graduate from Cortland State Teacher's College where he also was studying physical education and camping.

Senior counselors are Doris Parslow, William Radcliffe, Peggy Koltz, Lillian Heidcamp and John Van De Mark. Junior counselors, putting in their second season are: Gerald Bechtold, Richard Fein, Una Louise Schafer, Mary Jean Keller and Eleanor Lawrence. Other senior counselors are being considered.

The entire staff of camp directors and camp counselors, both senior and junior, have all passed their American Red Cross Life Saving and Water safety work, and therefore are fully qualified swimmers.

Camp folders are now being sent out and anyone interested in the Day Camp, can get special information by telephoning the Y.M.C.A., 1100.

Mino Adjourns Case; Holds First Session

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today adjourned for one week hearing on a charge of driving while intoxicated against William H. Hilton, 38, of 27 John street, who was arrested after an accident near 109 Albany avenue early Sunday morning.

The defendant entered a plea of not guilty through his counsel, N. LeVan Haver.

Police were notified at 1:36 a. m. that a light pole had been struck, and that a wire broke and fell. Officers Thomas McGrane and George Bowers, who investigated, arrested Hilton.

This morning's session was the first conducted by Judge Mino since his appointment Saturday by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk to fill the balance of the unexpired term of former Judge Matthew V. Cahill.

Scientists Try To Starve Cancer In Lab Tests

Berkeley, Calif.—They're trying to starve cancer to death at the University of California.

Under a research grant by the American Cancer Society, Dr David M. Greenberg, professor of biochemistry, and his associates are studying methods of substituting synthetic amino acids for real amino acids in tissue building processes. Inhibiting the growth of protein is their objective.

Amino acids are known as the "building blocks of protein." By feeding ersatz amino acids, body chemistry requiring real amino acids is blocked. Growth presumably ceases.

These experiments are still in an early stage. About 50 substitute chemicals have been tried with widely varying results. Tests have been made on tissues grown in test tubes and on laboratory animals. At this stage, with present techinques, the experiments almost certainly would prove fatal to humans.

In one series of tests, the scientists administered the synthetic amino acids to animals, killed the animals seven days later and weighed the tumors to determine whether they or the normal tissue suffered the greatest growth inhibition. Results were variable.

They also are attempting to find in chemistry and behavior differences of tumor and normal tissue. Natural food elements like amino acids and fatty acids are incorporated with radioactive carbon and fed to animals. Radio-sensitive instruments indicate to what organs and tissues these foods go; and scientists can estimate at what rate normal and tumor tissue use up the food and their respective resistance to lethal radiation. Any weaknesses shown by cancer tissue in these tests are considered for exploitation as an avenue for treatment.

Dr. Greenberg and his colleagues also are analyzing the urine of cancer patients and normal people, seeking any significant differences in the hormones, nitrogen or other chemicals excreted. Their hope is to find a difference specific enough to serve as a urine diagnostic test for cancer.

Urine extracts are torn apart ingeniously with a new partition chromatography technique. Compounds are made radioactive, and they are allowed to drip onto a starch-covered disc which revolves slowly—one revolution in 24 hours. The compound least firmly bound in the mixture, of course, will drop first—the most firmly bound, last. The order in which they drop upon and are absorbed by the bed of starch helps identify them chemically.

Support research! Give to the American Cancer Society.

Activation makes the difference

Shell splits molecules; Shell scientists take the finest available crude—activate the molecules by splitting them and rearranging the atoms according to Shell's formula for a perfectly balanced gasoline. The result—Shell Premium, the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Yes, many of today's engines have been stepped-up . . . they call for more powerful gasoline! Now Shell gives you the most powerful gasoline your car can use—Shell Premium—it's "activated." No other fuel can top its power in your car.

This is made possible by Shell's own, specially produced power components and by Shell's own blending methods!

Actually, Shell splits molecules to get more power for today's more powerful engines. So you get a gasoline that's "activated" 3 ways!

Neighbor — They say your daughter has made up her mind to marry a struggling young doctor.

Woman—Well, if she's made up her mind, he might as well stop struggling.

Grandma used to tie a chunk of asafetida around little Willie's neck to keep him from catching cold. And it worked, too, because no one approached within germ-transference distance of him.

Daughter—A moth leads an awful life.

Mother—How come?

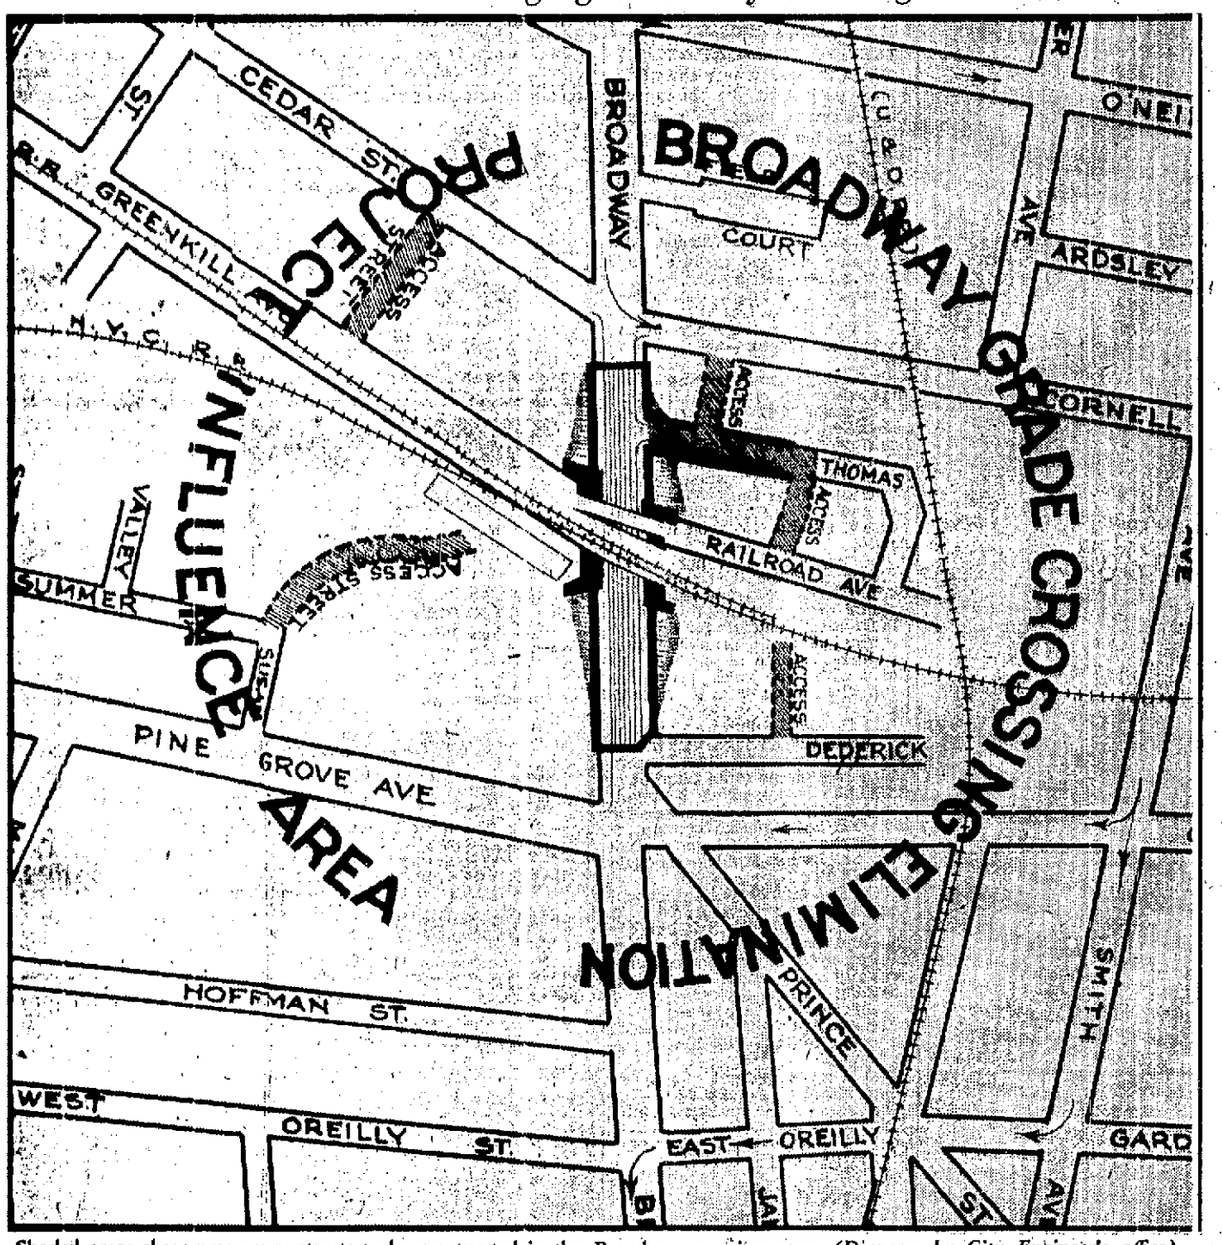
Plans for Changing Broadway Crossing



Shaded areas show new access streets to be constructed in the Broadway crossing area. (Diagram by City Engineer's office).

Broadway Crossing Story

(This is the first of a series of articles on the Broadway crossing which is scheduled for elimination by the State Public Works Department.)

Death Toll: 6 Persons

A lot of freight has passed through town since that day about 30 years ago when the city decided that the rolling stock of the West Shore Railroad and the mounting flow of automobile traffic were in each other's way.

This is the story of what has transpired since the first apparent effort of the city during the administration of the late Palmer Canfield to eliminate the grade crossing, and the present prospects of starting the elimination.

Outstanding in the history of the crossing during these 30 years is the death toll of six persons in two major accidents, and the growing traffic congestion resulting of the passage of long freight trains over the West Shore line of the New York Central System.

Earlier history of the line, incidentally, indicates that the crossing would not have been the community headache which it is, had the first plan of the New York Central authorities been followed, but the town itself and the rest of the world then had no reason to foresee the amazing growth of our automobile age when everybody began to find himself on the wrong side of the tracks.

Oldtimers have reported that the West Shore Railroad was built on its present grade only because of a general community demand for a look at the trains as they passed through town, and they said that the original plan of the line was to establish a grade from the Wilbur bridge which would have been below the street level at Broadway.

This being true, it is doubtful that this earlier request for a look at the trains could have been any more intense than the demand today for relief from the inconveniences, traffic congestion and danger of the grade crossing, which virtually cut the city in half.

State Is on Job

Recent developments have indicated that the state is now earnestly on the job in preparing for elimination of the crossing, and back of its present plans, is a file of records based on a series of local efforts for the past 30 years to obtain an effective elimination project.

Mayor Canfield, as early as January 1, 1918, was mindful of the crossing problem, and in his annual message to the Common Council he said:

"The question as to the best manner of eliminating the grade crossing of the West Shore railroad at Broadway must be solved as soon as conditions are favorable. In the meantime the proper city officials are giving it due consideration. The city engineer and myself have another possible plan which will be presented for consideration with other proposed plans when it becomes advisable to act."

The mayor nor other city officials hardly had time to act, however, before the city was shocked by the report of an accident at the crossing which took a toll of three lives.

Train Struck in 1918

A local trolley car headed uptown on Broadway on March 4, 1918, was struck by the "newspaper" train from New York shortly after 6:30 a. m., and fatally injured were Grove Webster, Jr., Wasil Kosteckl, 31 East Pierpont street, and Patrolman John G. Boyd.

Webster, who was in charge of ice harvesting along the Hudson River for Burns Brothers Corp., and Kosteckl, who was on route to work on the ice near Albany, died soon after the accident, and Policeman Boyd died March 9.

Among the injured were Chester B. Roe, 135 Prospect street, motorman on the trolley, and William Beadle, 74 Foxhall avenue, conductor. Others listed as injured were: Fred W. Sudheimer, 1 Hone street; Michael Litus, 21 East Pierpont street; John Grimm, 7 Foxhall avenue; Ben Cohen, 21 Ann street; J. DeWitt, 67 Hudson street; Daniel Healey, 257 Abeel street, and Denko Melniczuk, East Pierpont street, all passengers on the trolley car.

An account of the accident in the Freeman, March 4, 1918, said that the only other accident which was known to have cost a life at the crossing up to that time was "about 35 to 40 years" ago, before the West Shore Railroad was built and one of the horse cars was struck by a Wallkill Valley train, and Mrs. John Wolfer, a daughter of General Samson, was killed."

Health Is Better

Berlin, April 25 (AP)—Western Berlin's 2,250,000 people have come through the winter in better health than they began it, despite the Russian blockade's interference with many normal means of supplying food and medicine. Maj. Richmond S. Paine, chief of the American military government's public health branch, disclosed that information today. He said the rates for most contagious diseases were the lowest since the war and were lower than in 1938, the last normal pre-war year. He added that Berliners, fed by the airlift, have been gaining weight right through the winter and into spring.

Told to Ignore Attacks

Warsaw, Poland, April 25 (AP)—Poland's millions of Roman Catholics were told yesterday to ignore attacks on priests in the controlled press of the Communist-led government. A pastoral letter signed by Archbishop Stefan Wyszynski, primate of Poland, and all bishops was read in all churches telling parishioners to "refrain from reading anti-church organs and participating in anti-church or Godless meetings." In effect this would be a boycott by Catholics of the Polish press.

Still Gets Cold Shoulder

London, April 25 (AP)—They're still cold-shouldering the Duchess of Windsor. The Duchess, with her husband, left England for Paris last night after a 10-day stay during which the doors of royal palaces and most of England's stately homes remained closed to her.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Success Depends On Locating Card

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

My partner in a recent bridge game was Lanny Ross. I have always been an admirer of Lanny's since the days of his "Show Boat" radio show. The war interrupted his singing career for three or four years, but right after the war he started again with the "Lanny Ross Show."

Ross graduated from Yale University and then took up law, but before he could get a chance to pass his examinations for the bar, somebody offered him a nice contract on radio. Today he is enthusiastic about his new television show.

I have a date with Lanny to go up to his farm on "Catfish Derby" day, when he and his wife take 50 children up from New York with a guarantee that every one gets a fish. That's the kind of fishing I like.

In today's hand he had to do some fishing around for the queen of spades to make his contract. West's opening lead of the ten of diamonds was won in dummy with the queen. A small club was led and the jack finessed, losing to Wests' king. West returned a small diamond, which Ross won with the king.

Now the contract depended upon finding the location of the queen of spades. Ross cashed the ace of diamonds, followed by three rounds of clubs and the ace, king and queen of hearts—and at this point he had "fished out" the queen of spades. When East showed out on the second diamond lead, West was marked with six diamonds. West had followed to three rounds of hearts and three rounds of clubs. Therefore, he had only one spade.

So Ross laid down dummy's ace of spades. When the queen did not fall from the West hand, he was safe in finessing the ten of spades.

Clinton Ave. Church Names New Director For Choir Program

RAYMOND HOWE, JR.

Raymond Howe, Jr., of Port Ewen, will become choir director at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church beginning May 1. Announcement was made of his appointment at the morning worship service in the church Sunday.

Miss Millonig, a graduate of Oberlin College, will study for her master's degree at Northwestern University next fall.

Choir rehearsals for all of the groups will be conducted this week by Mr. Howe who plans to continue the youth and senior choir program. Mr. Howe is well-known as a baritone soloist in the community and for the past year has been teaching voice at the Roger Baer studio. He also is director of the junior and senior choirs at the Port Ewen Reformed Church.

He was one of the outstanding soloists with the K.H.S. A Cappella Choir while he was in high school. He served in the army air force immediately following graduation and appeared as featured soloist with the air force musicals, "Flying Home" and "All for Fun." Upon discharge he attended Bard College where he was a baritone soloist with the Schola Cantorum.

Last year he attended Juilliard School of Music where he studied voice with Handisty Johnson and also sang in St. Barthomus Choir, the Presbyterian Church quartet of Bloomfield, N. J. He conducted a junior and cherub choir in addition to his quartet work at the Bloomfield Church.

Mrs. Raymond Ingersoll will continue as church organist.

Good Taste Today

DELICATE SITUATION

A reader tells me: "A group of women meet at their various homes once a month, to work for the charities of the community. After the last meeting at my house, my finest guest towels, which had been put in the bathroom, were missing. I can't imagine there is anything I can do to recover them inasmuch as it seems impossible to imply that it could have been one of my guest. But is there any warning I can give to the hostess who has us at her house next that there is someone in the group who can't resist such things, and that it might be well to put out less fine towels?"

This is not only a difficult problem to solve but almost unbelievable. If, however, your are quite sure that no sneak thief from the outside could have entered your house while you were holding your meeting, and the next hostess is a very special friend, it might be well to tell her what happened. If each hostess in turn is warned, the guilty one eventually will learn that the theft has been discovered.

Chaperoning School Dance

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are asked to chaperon a group of several hundred boys and girls at their annual dance. Are there any special duties expected of us and do you think two chaperons sufficient for a group of this size? They are juniors and seniors in high school.

Answer: Although two additional persons might be asked merely to make it more pleasant for your husband and you, you two should be sufficient for your duties, which merely include receiving the guests at the door when they arrive and being present in the ballroom. In other words, upperclassmen in high school should be completely capable of chaperoning themselves, and the official chaperons are therefore, no more than a gesture of propriety.

Pusher

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever correct to assist food on the fork by means of a piece of bread?

Answer: Yes, use a small crust.

Do you know what the "finger foods" are? Mrs. Post has written a leaflet, E-16, which gives table rules of importance. Health for All

KEEPING WELL AFTER TB

When the doctor tells the tuberculous patient at the sanatorium that he can go home, he is actually telling the patient a number of other important things. The medical discharge means that the patient has successfully battled his tuberculosis, that he can rejoin his family and his friends, and that he can make definite plans about going back to work.

Yet, at this point, the former patient fully realizes that all his plans for the future hinge on one important factor—his staying well.

Observing common-sense rules that will keep him well is going to be easier if the former patient remembers that his newly-regained health was a long, up-hill fight. He is merely seeing to it that he holds on to his "victory" when he gets sufficient rest at the proper times, the right foods regularly, and keeps a careful check on his own health.

Keeping well need not be an arduous task for the former patient. He has been advised at the hospital of certain things he should not do. But life for him can be pretty much the same as it was before he became ill and went to the sanatorium. There are three main things for him to remember:

(1) He should observe the rules of healthful living which he learned at the sanatorium. Doctors and nurses at the sanatorium have given him sound advice that will make living healthfully easier for him and, with the aid of his doctor, he can map out a home routine that fits in his family's schedule of daily life.

(2) The former patient should keep in touch with his doctor at all times. He should visit him for checkups as often as the doctor advises, even though he may feel perfectly well. And if he notices anything wrong—such as loss of weight or appetite, unexplained fatigue, coughing and pain in the chest—he must see his doctor immediately.

(3) The ex-patient must do what his doctor tells him. The doctor knows the patient's condition best and is the one to advise him on all matters concerning his work and recreation which are safe for him.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Fire Destroys Former Dairy Barn

Ellenville, April 23—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the large two-story former dairy barn on what is generally known as the Burlison farm (Deponal if one goes back far enough), Thursday afternoon.

The property now is owned by Jack Siegel, who purchased the entire farm a few years ago and has an extensive housing development well under way. The fire, it is understood, was first discovered by James McCartney, who had his plane stored in the barn. He was in the vicinity talking to a friend, when he happened to look up and saw smoke pouring up from about the center of the 120-foot long structure. An alarm was turned in at about 2:15 and although the firemen responded at once they found the building a mass of flames upon their arrival and beyond any control. Incidentally, "Jim" saved his plane, Fire Chief Robert C. Michel said that the heat from the large frame structure was so intense that it was with difficulty that the firemen were able to save the home of Lee Robinson, situated about 150 feet north of the barn. As it was paint was pretty thoroughly burnt off of the still uncompleted house, when the south wind drove flames and sparks directly at it. There was considerable damage from water.

The chief said that he had been unable to secure any information as to the cause of the fire. He was told that no one was in the building at the time and that there was not supposed to be any fire in it. The owner, Mr. Siegel, was away when the fire broke out.

Mr. Siegel had a wood-working shop in the western "L" of the barn, with considerable machinery, Chief Michel said. He added that he also saw a burned tractor among the ruins. Outside of these it is understood that the barn was not occupied. The Kolmar Laboratories formerly had a considerable amount of goods stored there, but these had been removed some time ago.

The exact amount of the loss is not available, but the Terwilliger Agency carries about $10,000 insurance on the building and contents.

The barn at one time housed a large herd of cows which supplied the milk route of Maurice Deponal and later that of John Burlison. The original barn was burned, when struck by lightning years ago and the one just burned was erected on its site by Mr. Burlison.

Plate glass show windows in the front of Joseph's Jewelry store were smashed and articles on display broken about 11 o'clock Tuesday night when they were struck by the right rear wheel of an automobile operated by Donald Feaster of Ellenville. Feaster told Officer Frischling that as he turned from Liberty Square into Canal street the wheel came off, struck the parked sedan of Benjamin Megel of Kerhonkson, then smashed into the jewelry store windows. The car struck the panel truck of Robert R. Spiro of Wurtsboro, which also was parked at the curb. Arraigned Wednesday morning before Justice Benjamin Lonstein, Feaster was held in $25 bail for a hearing next Monday on charges of driving a car without license plates and failure to have an operator's license.

At its meeting Tuesday the Noonday Club took steps to oppose a move, said to have been instituted by the O. & W. Railway, to abandon service. Deyo W. Johnson, who brought the matter to the club's attention, was named chairman of a committee to oppose the move.

Miss Rita Schmitt, an Ellenville High School junior, has been chosen to represent this area at Girls State, to be held this year at Skidmore College, June 24 to July 2. This is an activity sponsored by the State American Legion Auxiliary.

Recent births at the Veterans Memorial Hospital include: A daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moshier of Grahamsville; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kuhlmann of Ellenville; son to Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Skeens of Napanoch; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. William Falk of Ellenville; son to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Keener of Ellenville. Also at Coxsackie, April 17, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. David C. Osterhoudt, formerly of Ellenville.

Asks 'Loyalty Day' Services

Albany, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—Governor Dewey urges New Yorkers to participate in "Loyalty Day" ceremonies next Sunday to counteract May Day demonstrations he says are staged by "subversive groups" to spread "insidious propaganda." In compliance with a resolution adopted by the 1949 Legislature, Dewey yesterday proclaimed May 1 as "Loyalty Day" in the state. Dewey asked that "appropriate ceremonies and exercises at public assemblies" be held next Sunday.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 23—Miss Beatrice Schreiner of New York is spending a few days at Camp Temerada where she was formerly one of the teachers. She is now in charge of a day nursery accommodating about 60 children. Miss Schreiner has bought a car and plans to make frequent weekend trips to Shokan this summer.

Eugene Angell, well known Boiceville hill road resident, was a business caller in the villlage center Thursday afternoon.

Who is responsibe for the cleaning of the blackboards in the units of the Onteora central district? This moot question has been settled by the officials who ruled that it is the pupils' duty to attend the chore, and it is up to the teachers to see that it is done.

George Gulnack, one of Asokan's bright young K.H.S. students, is learning the automotive repair trade in his spare time.

What with the spotlight on youthful mountain climbers during the past few days, it would appear that trails in the wilder parts of the mountains should be carefully blazed for the benefit of these sturdy Alpinists. Up at Haines Falls the chamber of commerce is marking a series of trails on South and Prospect Mountains, the paths having been surveyed by the authors of the forthcoming "Guide to the Rip Van Winkle Trail." Paths will be marked to such points of interest as Puddingstone Hall, Fatman's Deight, Alligator Rock, The Lemon Squeezer and other spots of a less unique nomenclature. Looks like a good idea from here.

The forming of a local fire company (really a sort of platoon of the Olive parent company) together with a captain and other officers thereto, is encouraging to residents of the first election district. Thus we have the vols and a fire truck, as well as a lot upon which to set the firehouse which is still in the blueprint stage. Some day, perhaps, there will be a reservoir, too, centrally located and fed from one or more of the good springs located up against the mountainside. (Our Old Timer informs us that not all the living springs are on the Wittenberg, or Shady side of Tice TenEyck peak.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carter, who for the past six weeks have been living in the house with their relatives, the James Bush family, at Brown's are moving to the newly renovated Terwilliger cottage on the north side of the Trail at Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerich Lukacs and son, Teddy, returned home Monday from a visit with relatives in New Brunswick, N. J.

The sheep raising industry has not entirely died out in the Catskills. A report from Bovina Center tells of two sheep dead as a result of being chased by dogs. Too bad, also that both of the ewes were carrying twin lambs. There are thousands of acres of old cleared fields in the mountains good only for pasturing sheep, yet a once thriving agricultural asset has been allowed literally to "go to the dogs."

A party of local Boy Scouts set forth Wednesday with Scoutmaster Robert Adsit to negotiate the popular Slide Mountain trail. The lads expect to camp on the Onteoras' highest peak until Friday.

The condition of Bertha Greene, who has been ill at her home for the past two weeks, was reported Wednesday to have taken a turn for the worse.

Fred Osterhoudt, whose retirement from the store business in Shandaken village has been announced, has a number of friends in Shokan where he and his wife resided in waterworks days. Mrs. Osterhoudt as Grace Churchwell was brought up at Boiceville where her father, Benjamin Churchwell, was postmaster.

LYONSVILLE

Lyonsville, April 25—The Rev. John B. Stelcetee of Kingston recently made several pastoral calls here.

Charles Hux, Sr. and several friends who spent last week-end trout fishing in the Adirondacks spent Monday afternoon at his summer home here before returning to their homes in Lodi, N. J.

Ronald Kozian, local M.J.M. student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kozian, Rose Hill, has been ill and is a patient at a Brooklyn hospital.

Harold Clarke, Kingston veterinarian, aided in the state testing of several local dairy herds last week.

It has been reported that Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Bollen, former residents, have purchased a home in New Paltz where Mr. Bollen has opened a branch real estate office of the Chris L. Zimmer firm of Tillson.

Lightning rods have recently been installed on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roosa.

Fire Protection Ratified

Albany, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—New York state today formally completed ratification of the Northeastern Forest Fire Protection Compact. Governor Dewey signed legislation authorizing the state to join with six New England States in a co-operative fire control program. The pact provides for mobilization of fire fighting forces and equipment in the seven states as part of a program to check and prevent forest fires. It also authorizes establishment of a central agency to coordinate the services of member states. The pact has been approved by Vermont and New Hampshire. It was passed by the New York Legislature March 10.

DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS

Effect of Cell Chemistry on Nerve Impulses

Seattle Wash. — Contrary to popular opinion that nervous impulses travel with about the speed of light, the stimulus that moves a person out of the path of a speeding car travels along sensory and motor nerves at about 328 feet a second—ten times the speed of a sprinter.

Conduction of nerve impulses and contractility, the ability of muscles to move in response to stimuli, are dependent upon the chemical content of the nerve and muscle cells. One of the kinds of chemicals essential to both nerve conduction and muscle contractility is the sulfhydryl group. They are sulfur-containing compounds found throughout the body, doing several jobs but important in the proper functioning of nerves and muscles.

Under the American Cancer Society grant for research, Dr. H. S. Bennett, of the University of Washington Department of Anatomy, will study chemicals involved in movement and nerve transmission. The basic investigative techniques he may develop may be useful to other scientists attempting to determine the chemical differences between cancer and normal tissue.

Two years ago at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Bennett devised a means of ascertaining where the sulfhydryl groups were concentrated in various tissues. The groups themselves are invisible under the microscope. He displaced a hydrogen atom in the sulfhydryls with red mercury compound which reacts with sulfhydryl, but not with other active groups on tissues. The sulfhydryls were thus tagged with an optical tracer substance which showed red under the microscope.

Thus one of the many closed doors to cell chemistry was opened. It opened the way to study some of the chemical properties of the tiny contractile filaments of muscle which can be seen when magnified 50,000 or 100,000 times in the electron microscope. Stable and radio-active isotopes cannot now be used effectively for study of chemical localization in such small structures.

Dr. Bennett's work is carried out on frozen, dried tissue and the muscles and nerves of freshly killed animals. For substantial periods after death and removal from the body—depending upon preservation conditions — nerves will transmit stimuli and muscles will react to them.

The essential importance of sulfhydryl compounds to muscle functions has been demonstrated in many ways by numerous investigators. One proof was obtained some years ago by other workers, who treated muscle with iodoacetic acid, which abolishes sulfhydryl . . . and completely stops movements as well.

Iodoacetic acid acts as a poison in living animals. When it is injected it goes to muscle tissue, destroys the sulfhydryls and stops movements. The heart is a muscle, and it would be stopped the moment the chemical change took place.

The effect on nerves can be studied on an oscilloscope, which records the movement of the electrically-charged particles in nerve cells and processes.

Dr. Bennett will study other compounds and groups as well as sulfhydryl, attempting to develop methods which may be useful in identifying and measuring chemicals in normal and cancer tissue.

Colonials Edge Chiefs, 15-14, in Slugfest on Murray's Home Run

Long Clout in Seventh Decides Wild Contest

Gerald Murray's eighth inning homer—a screaming line drive that sailed out of Riverview Field at the 335-foot marker in left field—gave the Kingston Colonials a frost-bitten 15-14 exhibition triumph over the Poughkeepsie Chiefs, Sunday before 800 Eskimos in the Queen City.

Baseball purists may have thrown up their hands in despair but this was a spring clambake in the finest tradition of baseball. These fellows haven't been south, you know. And it was more like football weather.

During the slugfest that consumed two hours and fifty-three minutes, the two teams achieved a terrifying total of 24 hits, 29 runs, 20 bases on balls, three wild pitches and nine strikeouts.

Riescher Wins

Murray's blow, his second of the contest, presented Ray Riescher with the victory after Julie Laviano's yearlings rallied from a 12-7 deficit to chase seven runs across the plate in the seventh inning for a 14-12 lead. The Chiefs tied it in their half of the seventh with a pair before Murray connected with his round tripper.

Eddie McNamara led Kingston with a trio of singles, while Murray and "Digger" Odell each had a pair. The "Digger", the piscatorial expert who arived in camp three days late, drove in three runs.

Hamilton Graham, White and Riescher toiled for the Colonials, Graham getting the hook during Poughkeepsie's eight-run blast in the third. Manager Williams of the Chiefs also called on three flingers, Sunderland, Garafola and Kesten.

Ostrom Blasted

Kingston's seven-run barrage in the seventh was significant in that it pinned back the ears of Billy Ostrom, the fabulous southpaw.

The rally started innocuously enough with Danny Rourke fanning as a pinch hitter. Then in rapid succession came a walk to McNamara, Murray's double, an error by third baseman Lance on Mercurio's hopper, a walk to Pete Elko, Odell's blast to left and a hit batsmen. Keller, the relief hurler then walked four straight batters.

The Chiefs unveiled a fine outfield prospect in Sal Stampiglio who was the batting hero of the day. The North Atlantic League alumnus poled a single, double and triple, knocked in six runs and scored three. His base clearing double to left center highlighted Poughkeepsie's third inning rally.

Elko Fielding Star

Chief hurlers wanted no truck with Pete Elko, the Colonials' powerhouse third sacker, who drew four walks. Elko starred in the field with six chances and made the play of the day when he knocked down Morris' hot liner with his bare hand. Murray's hitting also brought smiles to Manager Julie Laviano, who has a right field problem, you know.

Young Jack Charter, one of the all-time Poughkeepsie High School batting greats, made his professional baseball debut with the Chiefs and picked up a double and single in five trips and knocked in two runs.

White Sox Pitchers, 'Sluggers' Confound A.L.'s Pall Bearers

(By The Associated Press)

Hold off on those flowers—the patient is far from dead.

The patient, of course, is the Chicago White Sox, the club that was doomed by the experts to die of loneliness in the deary confines of the American League basement.

Apparently the White Sox have different ideas on the subject. Judging from today's standings, the Sox not only are very much alive, but are making some of the other teams roll over and play dead.

The end of the first week of play finds the Sox tied with the Philadelphia Athletics for second place, only half a game behind the fast-moving New York Yankees. They have won five and lost only two, all their victories coming in a row.

Wight, Gumpert Star

Splendid pitching by Bill Wight and Randy Gumpert yesterday enabled the White Sox to whip the St. Louis Brown twice, 2-1 and 4-0, giving them a sweep of the four-game series. Wight needed the help of some swell relief pitching by Matt Surkont, Rochester draftee, and a two-run ninth inning rally by his mates to escape being charged with a 1-0 setback. Surkout, who worked the ninth, got the victory. Gumpert's performance was more gilt-edged. He permitted only three singles and allowed no Brownie runner to pass second base.

The Athletics continued to fatten up at the expense of Washington pitchers, combing Sid Hudson and two reliefers for 12 hits to whip the Senators 8-3. It marked the sixth straight loss for the Nats, who have not won since opening day. Lou Brissie went the distance for the second time in a row, notching his second triumph on a five-hitter.

Yanks Drub Sox

The Boston Red Sox continued to flounder around, dropping their fourth game in six starts, when the Yankees came from behind to defeat them, 9-4. Trailing 4-0, the Bronx Bombers scored six runs in the eighth, and added three more in the ninth to sail away their fifth triumph against only one loss.

Brooklyn's scrappy Dodgers retained their half-game margin in the National League race, splitting a doubleheader with the Phillies in Philadelphia. The Phils won the opener, 7-4, and the Dodgers took the second, 6-5. Home runs by Richie Ashburn, Stan Lopata and Eddie Miller highlighted the Phils' victory.

Giants Win Again

The Cincinnati Reds fell into a second place tie with the New York Giants when they divided a twin bill with the Pirate in Pittsburgh. The Reds won the first game, 3-2, in 10 innings with Charlie Kress singling home Johnny Wyrostek with the winning run. Eddie Bockman drove in all Pittsburgh's runs with a pair of home runs in the Pirates' 3-1 second game victory.

Sheldon Jones went all the way, scattering seven hits, as the Giants defeated the Boston Braves 6-2. Bobby Thomson provided the winning margin in the first inning with a three-run homer, off Vern Bickford.

Joe Garagiola doubled home Enos Slaughter with the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. The blow came in the last half of the ninth with two out.

The scheduled game between Cleveland and Detroit was postponed by rain and cold weather.

Champs of the Independent Loop

Vogel's Dairy bundlers give with the big victory smiles after wrapping up the Independent League title for 1948-49. The sharpshooters were feted Saturday night at the annual banquet held at the Roseland Restaurant. Members of the cast in the usual order include Charlie Grunenwald, high average man in the league; Gene Vogel, sponsor; Barney Rosinski, Leo Everett and Don "703" Vogel. Jack Hartman made the presentation of prizes at Saturday's banquet. Dancing was enjoyed after the dinner. John "Red" Sangi, Central Rec proprietor, presented Charlie Grunenwald and Harry Wilber with trophies for high scores of 241 and 630 respectively in the post-season playoffs. (Photo by Beichert)

• Bagatelles:

"Moose" Krause, the large gentleman who charts Notre Dame athletic destinies these days, didn't come by the slightly virile appellation by accident. A former All-America basketball and football star, one of the rare "doubles" in collegiate history, the "Moose" resembles a human baby tank, but with the giant bulk goes a splendid personality, and naturally gregarious instincts that will make him a great salesman for Notre Dame University.

The "Moose" is scheduled to speak before the fourth annual Kingston Athletic Association dinner Wednesday night at Stuyvesant Hotel. He follows in the wake of such distinguished sports contemporaries as Coach Frank Leahy, Frankie Frisch, Jimmy Powers, Mel Allen and others. Chances are Krause will be equally as interesting as any of his predecessors, a renowned quartet that could handle the American sport language with class, color and fluency.

• Appointment By Request?

The "Moose" was recently and rather unexpectedly appointed athletic director at Notre Dame, succeeding the fabulous Frank Leahy. At the time of Krause's appointment to the highest athletic office in South Bend, it was announced that Leahy was relinquishing his athletic directorship because of excessive duties with the Fighting Irish. It was pointed out that coaching the Notre Dame football squad is a full-time job that left the amazing Mr. Leahy with little, if any, idle moments.

The football purists, however, quickly pointed out that Krause's appointment coincided with a series of withdrawals from the Notre Dame football schedule. You know, Army, Ohio State, Michigan, Northwestern, and other big powers. The reasons and alibis proffered were as varied as the schools and personalities involved. The real reason, pure and simple, was that the big football institutions were sick and tired of having Notre Dame beat hell out of them year after year.

• About Religious Football:

One Big Ten athletic director reaped a measure of dubious immortality when he quipped:

"We can battle against football teams but we can't fight religion. Football isn't a sport at Notre Dame, it's a religion." And, what's wrong with that, we ask? At least the Fighting Irish are brave enough to rip away the mask of hypocrisy that prevails at many other colleges and universities. In South Bend they tell you that Notre Dame wants to win every football game on its schedule in every given year. They make no pretense about "building character", and playing football for sport's sake only.

Notre Dame maintains one of the highest standards of scholarship in the country and has produced thousands of outstanding "characters" in every walk of life. Meanwhile, they haven't tried to kid anybody about their desire to win football games.

• Denny Myers' Famous Quip:

Speaking of character building reminds us of an anecdote about Coach Denny Myers when he was piloting the Boston College Eagles.

A reporter asked Coach Myers about character building in college football.

"I don't try to build character, I try to build football players," snapped Myers, "that's what I get paid for. If young men haven't acquired 'character' in their own homes by the time they reach college age, then I'm afraid they never will. . . . ."

• Leahy the Invincible:

Frank Leahy's record as a football coach is one of the greatest in history, a shining escutcheon that compares favorably with that of the immortal Knute Rockne. But they tell you that Leahy isn't a good salesman for Notre Dame and consequently has difficulty in maintaining relations with the big ones, Army, Ohio State, Michigan, Northwestern, you know. Rival coaches are supposed to hate The Master and want no truck with him. The gregarious Rockne had the ability to beat a coach's ears back on Saturday and invite him on a fishing trip on Monday. The cauliflowered-ear coach always returned to the Notre Dame schedule.

That's where "Moose" Krause comes in. He is supposed to protect his personality into the Notre Dame football picture and facilitate the thorny problems of maintaining a major league schedule. Notre Dame officials meanwhile tell you the Fighting Irish will always have a big league schedule, irrespective of who is at the helm.

It will be interesting to see what "The Moose" has to say about that Tuesday night.

Wilmington Open To Henry Ransom

Wilmington, N. C., April 25 (AP)—Consistency, in rain, sunshine and wind paid off for Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill. He got the $2,000 top money in the $10,000 Wilmington Open golf tournament.

After standing eighth for the first round, Ransom began to climb and nobody could stop him. He moved up to second place Saturday, and yesterday he finished the climb with a two-under-par 70 for a winning 276.

He was 12 under par for the 72-hole stretch over the Cape Fear Country Club course, with rounds of 69-69-68-70.

Young Paul O'Leary of Bismarck, N. D., after pacing the field for three days, finally fell down in the closing round and had to settle for a 76. That gave him a 281 and a tie for sixth place. He won $560.

The scramble for second place produced a four-way deadlock among Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., who finished with 68's; Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, La., with a 69; and Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, with a 71. Each collected $975.

Rochester Women Lead B Doubles

Buffalo, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—Two Rochester women are the new leaders in Class B doubles in the 16th annual tourney of the New York State Women's Bowling Association.

Veronica Voellinger and Audry Roth scored a 1082 total yesterday on individual tallies of 551 and 531, respectively. They snatched the lead from Betty De Feo and Carrie Adams of Schenectady, who had moved to the top of the Class B doubles list earlier with a 1068 total.

Another Rochester duo, Madeline Owen and Eleanor Diehl took third spot with 1053.

Games of 203, 213 and 129 gave Clara Holtz of Rochester a 545 total and leadership of Class C singles. Mary Friedman of Beacon, moved into second place on games of 177, 190, 167—534. Virginia Berher, Beacon, was fifth with 516.

Helen Bojack of Albany totaled 1742 to take second place in all-events. She rolled 660 in doubles, 565 in singles and 517 in team competition. She also was in second place in Class A doubles, Miss Bojack and her partner, Ermine Mulholland, had a 1167 total.

Dewey Honors Bond Workers

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, center, congratulates Robert Case, manager of Reade's Theatres in Kingston, and Richmond F. Meyer of Poughkeepsie, for their participation in the U. S. Savings Bond Program. Governor Dewey was host at a dinner honoring the savings bond workers last week at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York. Case is chairman of the Ulster county payroll savings plan and also of county theatres. Meyer is chairman of District 6 comprising Ulster, Sullivan, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland and Putnam counties. Case said today that local theatres will resume selling treasury bonds on May 13. (Acme Photo)

ployes demand a 10-cent hourly wage increase granted in a contract signed last October.

The railroad, an important coal carrier, has been operated by trustees since 1937. They contend the road does not have the money to pay the wage boost.

The unions and the Federal Mediation Board say the company can pay the increases.

Federal mediators said Friday that "for the time being" they had given up trying to settle the strike.

The unions involved in the strike are the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors.

Town of Hurley Plans New Civic Association

A new civic association has been formed among residents of the South side of the Ashokan reservoir in the town of Hurley which will be known as the South Side Civic Association of the Town of Hurley. The purposes of the new organization is to promote good fellowship among the members and to provide local improvements such as having signs posted with the names of various roads.

Meetings are being held temporarily at the schoolhouse of District 6 on Route 28-a, south of the reservoir. The next meeting will be held Saturday, April 30, at 8 p. m.

Tensions, Violence

if the Huks would surrender their arms. Mutual distrust was too strong, and the peace talks broke down.

Then the soldiers and temporary police, aided by observation planes, armored cars and mortars, slashed into the known hideouts of the dissidents. More than 500 Huks were killed in four months. Survivors fled in small bands east to the Sierra Madre and west to the Xambales mountains. Their leader, Taruc, an avowed Communist, went underground.

Late in February, the government ran out of the fund it had used to pay temporary police. The anti-Huk volunteers, who had numbered in the thousands, melted to ten per cent of their winter strength.

Intelligence sources said the Huks began reassembling in March and early April.

There since have been whispers of submarines—presumably Russian—landing supplies for the guerrillas, but both sides have denied this. Nor has a close check by army and civilian authorities borne out stories of Chinese Communist reinforcements.

This area is nevertheless tense, expecting more conflict.

Visiting the hut of one young rice farmer, this correspondent counted five weapons: a submachine gun, a Garand rifle, a carbine with an automatic clip, a Luger pistol, and a Japanese sniper's rifle.

The owner of this arsenal said he was trying to farm 44 acres and wanted to protect his crop.

"People here are being made to believe that Russians are coming," he said. "We don't know if this is Hukbalahap propaganda or not, but we do know many people are joining the Huks."

First Movie Theatre

The Electric theatre, Los Angeles, Calif., was the first motion picture theatre to be opened. Opening was April 2, 1902, the admission was 10 cents, and the show lasted one hour.

at once, was sponsored by Republican Senator Seymour Halpern of Queens.

Under its provisions, the commission is directed to formulate a program embracing:

1—Recruitment, training and education of professional and allied personnel in the psychiatric field.

2—Development, expansion and coordination of general hospital and clinic facilities and of outpatient agencies for adults and children.

3—Specialized research activities in conjunction with medical schools, including a new hospital center to be created as part of the state university system.

4—Development and coordination of the activities of public and private agencies operating on the local community level in health, welfare, penal judicial and other fields.

The commission is headed by the state mental hygience commissioner. Other members are the state commissioners of social welfare, health, correction and education. The unit must report to the Legislature each year by February 16.

Dewey, in his annual message to the Legislature, said the state now has more than 97,500 mental patients and nearly 13,000 on convalescent status, or a total of over 110,000. He said that another 4,000 to 6,000 patients "will have to be admitted to our already overcrowded mental institutions" in the next two years.

Car Recovered

The car of Frank Mehm, 28 Staples street, reported stolen Friday afternoon from in front of his home, was recovered Saturday afternoon by Officer Gurnsey Burger, Jr., on Highland avenue near East Chester street.

Civil Service Meeting

The Ulster County Chapter of the Civil Service Employes Association will meet at 8 p. m. today in the lunch room of Board of Public Works employes on O'Reilly street.

the meeting will be held to take up the consolidation proposal.

At the meeting Saturday night Ross Osterhoudt of Stone Ridge was named chairman of the meeting and Mrs. William Strong, clerk. On motion of a taxpayer that the meeting was illegal unless approval of the commissioner had been secured the meeting was adjourned for a week and the required approval will be sought.

Under the new provision of law which became effective in March, trustees of the district are required to file application with the Commissioner of Education and receive consent in consolidation proceedings.

Meets With Aides

Washington, April 25 (AP)—John L. Lewis met with top aides today to frame new soft coal contract demands that may set a 1949 bargaining pattern for other labor unions. Lewis summoned his United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee to decide on changes the union wants in the bituminous agreement due to expire June 30. Coal, like many other industries, has drifted into relative economic doldrums after the wartime and postwar booms.
